Military Processions and Religious Rites in Brussels Over Body of King Albert Last for Eight Hours; Guns Boom in Last Salute

Kings and Princes Join in Ceremonies

By Albert W. Wilson, Associated Press Foreign Staff
Brussels, Feb. 22.—The body of King Albert I was buried to-day in the crypt of a little grey church near the royal castle at Laeken, which contains the remains of his predecessors Leopold I and II. Interment was made after one of the most impressive funerals given a national leader in modern times.

Eight hours of military processions and religious rites in two churches were ended at 3 p.m. when the body was lowered into its last resting place after a brief private service for the royal family.

Thousands of persons took part in the processions and hundreds of thousands more witnessed the pageantry under a heavily overcast sky. Rain fell slightly for about half an hour while a service was held in the thirteenth century cathedral of St. Gudule. It stopped again when mourners resumed their march toward Laeken.

SOLDIERS MARCH
One of the most spectacular scenes of the day was a demonstration by detachments of the Allies and the Belgian army in front of Laeken Church. There the Belgian troops drilled for the last time before their king. They marched while bells tolled unceasingly and guns boomed their salute.

Visiting royalty, princes and diplomats, witnessed the military manoeuvres from a dais. The Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, a cousin of the late King Albert, was the only woman of royalty to witness this review.

King George was represented by the Prince of Wales. Queen Elizabeth and her daughter-in-law, Princess Astrid, who to-morrow will be Queen of the Belgians, attended the service in St. Gudule Cathedral. Doubt as to whether the queen actually was present in the church was dispelled when the queen and queen-to-be sat together under the royal canopy.

CITY SAVES ON ESTIMATES

Radio Station CFCT Loses $1,000 Grant; No New Fire Engine

Victoria's civic budget yesterday evening passed to the "cut-throat committee" with the understanding, endorsed in a resolution, no change in salaries would be effected, and no reduction in staff would be made.

The council, sitting as the estimates committee, considered the budget laid before it by the city comptroller, D. A. Macdonald, with few amendments referred to the details to the special committee composed of Mayor David Leeming, Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the Finance Committee, and Aldermen Walter Lunney, John A. Worthington and T. W. C. Hawkins, for a report back to the general committee of the council on estimates.

MAJOR REVISIONS

Major revisions included the striking out of $5,500 from the estimated fire department's costs, that sum having been sought for a new combination hose and chemical wagon, and the reduction of special grants from $1,700 to $700, the $1,000 cut being the amount usually allotted to radio station CFCT. Of a minor nature were reductions of $200 in the estimates for legal expenses and legislation in the legal department, $45 in the land department, and $46 in the pound department.

Debt charges, extension securities charges, city's share of local improvement charges, brokerage and exchange, and interest on bank loan and prepaid taxes were endorsed as they stood, with a total of $1,042,000. In discussion, the comptroller stated he had estimated brokerage and exchange on bonds payable in sterling at a rate of $4.65 to the pound.
Added to these fixed charges were school and police estimates of $455,510 and $101,000, respectively, swelling the total to $1,638,516.

ASKS FOR CUT

Estimates of the payments for the municipal council were endorsed, with Alderman R. T. Williams voicing a dissenting note, while he asked Mayor Leeming to reduce his stipend. An increase of $100 was made in the figures for the treasurer's department, that sum being considered necessary to augment funds earmarked for printing, stationery and advertising. It will go towards the replacement of a worn-out machine.
Halving of the appropriation for extra assistance in making out the voters list was asked by the inclusion of $50 for the purchase of a new book of statutes in the city clerk's office.

Radical Changes Needed Declares Leader Of C.C.F.

Pomp and Ceremony of Opening Marred by Recollection of Distress, Rev. Robert Connell Tells Legislature

Abundance Under Capitalistic System Only Leading to Dilemma, He Claims in First Speech

Warnings given by responsible authorities of the effects of the "broken down economic system" as shown in child mortality and mental diseases were sufficient to justify vastly more radical changes than any suggested by the speech from the Throne or in the addresses of the Liberal members moving and seconding the debate, declared Rev. Robert Connell, leader of the Opposition, this afternoon as he made the first speech from the C.C.F. benches in the B.C. Legislature.

Injury to the morale of citizenship through protracted unemployment and insufficient relief were other factors showing the need for drastic remedies, claimed Mr. Connell.

While he was in full accord with the "refreshing utterances" of Dr. J. Allen Harris, South Okanagan, in his general attitude, he could not hold to the ideas in the way they pointed to an increase by science in the abundance of production.

Such abundance under the capitalistic system would only land the country further in the dilemma of unemployable goods, unemployed workers and ill-nurtured people, said the C.C.F. House leader.

"GOVERNMENTAL APATHY"
"In spite of the continual references to returning prosperity a certain hopelessness is fast spreading among our people," he declared.

"During the election campaign," said the speaker, "we heard much of speed and promptitude in the removal of our young men from unemployment camps—those tragedies of a world made rich by science; and of a programme of doing and doing. Every effort should be made forthwith to carry out these pledges."

Dealing with the proposed minimum wage legislation, he declared: "If the interests of certain industries have made the present minimum wage laws ineffective, under a board in which these interests would be represented and no doubt have as great or even a greater controlling voice."

Mr. Connell expressed his thanks on behalf of the C.C.F. members to the Premier for his kind references to them and hoped the present feeling of the opening proceedings might mark relationships throughout the whole of the session.

"POMP AND CEREMONY"
The customary pomp and ceremony of the opening, he declared, was somewhat marred by the recollection of a distress and anxiety so prevalent in a large part of the community, a condition now of some years' standing here and throughout the world.

NAMED WHIPS FOR PARTIES

Bill-Sponsored by Hon. G. S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, Designed to Prevent Exploitation of Labor

Minimum Wage Laws Are Being Displaced

Wide arbitrary powers for the provincial government's new Industrial Relations Board will be sought in a bill to be sponsored in the Legislature this week by Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines and Labor.

Covering all fields of employment, the bill is designed to furnish authority to the board to step in and establish scales of wages, conditions of labor and so forth.

It is one of the first major steps of the new government to handle the industrial and labor situation in the province.

It will replace the former minimum wage laws and while not fixing any scales to start with will give this power to the board.

At the same time the rights of both employer and employee will be protected by a right of appeal to the board before arbitrators decided upon become effective.

STRIKE WEAPON
It also will strengthen the hand of the government in dealing with strikes and other forms of labor disturbances.

Adam Bell, Deputy Minister of Labor, will be the chairman of the new board, sitting with Prof. W. A. Carrothers, chairman of the Economic Council, and three others, one of whom will be a woman, one a representative of labor and the other representing industry.

Labor legislation supplementing the minimum wage law will be brought down later in the session, dealing with hours of work and general conditions in industry.

YOUNG MEN'S CLAUSE

One of the first difficulties which the act proposes to remedy is that arising through employment of young boys instead of girls in order to evade the minimum wage rules. The idea is to include boys from eighteen to twenty-one years of age under the same regulations as those applying to women and this will prohibit the practice, which has developed to such an extent.

It is stated that in some cases young married men are working for less than the female minimum.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—In all cases where the Board of Pensions Commissioners discounted payment of pension due to that body questioning the legality of the marriage of the pensioner, without a proper judicial hearing, charges will be sent as of date of discontinuance, the Prime Minister informed the House of Commons this afternoon.

New York, Feb. 22.—Road crews redoubled their efforts to-day to reach communities still isolated following the worst storm of the winter in the eastern United States.

On the eastern shore of Maryland conditions were the worst since 1900. Many schools were closed and most of Chesapeake Bay was still ice locked.

In Massachusetts many small towns were cut off by snowdrifts as deep as twenty feet. Stalled snowploughs and automobiles dotted the roads. Conditions on the mainland of New York state were almost normal. Long Island, however, was still in the grip of great drifts.

FRENCH SEE SECRET "BAND OF TERROR"

GREAT THROGS SEE BELGIUM'S ROYAL FUNERAL

POLICE LINES BROKEN
Thousands of mourners earlier had smashed police lines and surged about the royal palace as the funeral procession formed in the crowded-lined streets.

The cordon was broken directly in front of the palace in which lay the body of the king. It several minutes before order was restored.

FROM TOWNS AND FARMS
Police along the streets fought to keep back the ever-present, surging crowds.

From every town and village and almost every farm in Belgium they had come. There were women in slippers with babies in arms from the Walloon district military country. There were people in costumes of many descriptions.

But strange, still went unnoticed among the sorrowing subjects of the fallen monarch. These visitors moved by side with the ladies in slippers and college girls and women in nurses' uniforms.

All were bent on the same errand—to pay final homage to the late king.

KINGS IN PROCESSION
Brussels, Feb. 22.—As Belgium buried its late King Albert today, kings walked in the funeral procession, and a hundred guns saluted and church bells tolled. Behind wooden barriers crowds that in places were backed to a depth of 200 yards, watched the solemn march.

Some likened this funeral of Albert to the funeral of his father, King Leopold I, which took place in 1909. It drew an even more brilliant line of allied monarchs.

Active and future rulers of many of the world's remaining monarchies, high officials of democracies and leaders of the allied armies escorted the casket from the grand palace to a crypt at the little, grey church near the royal castle at Laeken.

THOUSANDS OF VETERANS

Between 30,000 and 40,000 Belgian veterans who knew the dead king as their leader against the armies of Kaiser Wilhelm, marched past the coffin before the procession started.

True to Belgian custom, no women took part in the ceremonies. Wrapped in the national flag, the great staircase at the Brussels palace, it was placed upon the gun carriage in the courtyard at the palace with the king's tunic, helmet and sword resting on the cover of the coffin.

At 7:30 a.m. the Belgian war veterans twelve abreast began their march past the coffin. They paraded silently through the court for nearly three hours.

The funeral service in the cathedral was one of solemn grandeur. The Archbishop of Malines, wearing a white mitre, read prayers. The pontifical mass was sung by the choir of Malines.

Headed by detachments of cavalry and artillery, with a band playing a solemn march, the procession moved again—this time toward the final destination.

The dead king's personal colors were borne ahead of the gun carriage. His favorite charger followed.

FIGURES IN PROCESSION
Prince Leopold, Prince Charles and Prince Umberto of Italy, as the brother-in-law of the future king, led the mourners.

Prince of Wales, President Albert Lebrun of France, King Boris III of Bulgaria, King Christian of Denmark, King Ferdinand of Rumania, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, heir to the Swedish throne, Crown Prince Olaf of Norway, Prince Consort Henry of Holland, Prince Consort Paul of Luxembourg, Prince Nicholas of Roumania, and Prince Carl of Sweden, father of Crown Princess Astrid.

Directly behind them came the foreign diplomats, the provincial governors and representatives of learned societies and other civilian bodies.

GUNS AND BELLS
Amid a salvo of 101 guns, the tolling of hundreds of bells and the clatter of escorting cavalry, the casket was brought up the narrow winding streets on the caisson to the main entrance to the massive Gothic cathedral.

In the upper choir were the thrones of the royal family. There, for the first time, the prince, who is to become King Leopold III tomorrow, took the seat of his father.

When the service was ended, the procession moved slowly over the two-mile route to the private burial at Laeken. With the Prince of Wales were Field Marshal Lord Allenby and Admiral Sir Roger Keyes as war veterans.

Dr. Friedrich von Keller, former German minister at Brussels, and German minister at Warsaw, 42-Premier Ignace Jan Paderewski, 42-Premier of the Polish Republic and famous pianist, headed the delegation from Poland.

GERMANS SAY

FRENCH BLOCK DISARMAMENT

APPROVED IN PRINCIPLE
It was reported on reliable authority the Chancellor had approved a British arms memorandum "in principle" and was ready to begin efforts to start the disarmament ball rolling again.

It is believed there are no irreconcilable differences between the British and Italian arms theses. At the same time as Britain promulgated her latest plan, with concessions for Germany, Italy issued a memorandum in which she expressed agreement with the German demand for an armistice of 100,000, noting at the same time German willingness to reconsider that figure.

The Italian Government has also let it be known it considers the main disarmament plan—the British draft convention of March, 1933—as the most desirable solution of the problem.

In the greatest essential—recognition of Germany's right to equality—Italy and Britain are agreed.

Police, Investigating Murder of Judge Albert Prince, yesterday, Say Late S. Staviskey, Pawnshop Promoter, Had Many Secret Agents

By Stuart Maroney, Associated Press

Paris, Feb. 22.—Behind the over-throw of two governments, hints of international espionage and the $40,000,000 Staviskey pawnshop scandal police to-day saw a secret "band of terror."

Investigating the murder near Dijon Wednesday of Judge Albert Prince, Police Commissioner Pachot said:

"It is proof of a sort of organized terror, it would indicate the existence of an extremely dangerous occult organization. It would prove Alex Staviskey had agents in all walks of life."

The body of Judge Prince, bound and found mutilated on a railroad track. The exact manner of his death is undetermined.

Ally-autopsied at Dijon indicated he was dead before the body was placed on the rails and police chemists sought for traces of poison in the organs.

TO PREVENT TESTIFYING
A blood-stained knife and a powder puff lay beside the body. Judge Prince's pocketbook was untouched. His brief case, however, had been looted. Investigators concluded Judge Prince was slain to prevent him testifying in the Staviskey case.

"Judge Prince had no personal enemy. On the contrary, everybody liked him," said Leon Blum, French Socialist leader.

But in parliamentary circles Judge Prince was presumed to have known the inside story of the judicial handling of the alleged "master criminal" Staviskey—whose suicide climaxed the $40,000,000 Bayonne bank scandal.

General maintenance costs of the cemetery, boulevard maintenance and other departments of the parks' committee budgeted for the year.

Consideration, street lighting costs were sent back to the electric lighting committee. Estimates of the library committee were tabled for consideration on the return of Alderman J. D. Hunter and proposed appropriations for the city engineer's report.

HOME COSTS TABLED
Among the general grants those to the Aired and L. W. Women's, Maple Rest and other homes were sent back to a special committee, which is the Children's Aid Society was laid over. Funding a report from Dr. B. Pelton, city health officer, the $1,200 donation to the Refuge Home was laid over, while the Y.W.C.A. request was also placed on the table.

All hospital requests were tabled for further discussion following a meeting of the hospital directors with the committee on estimates.

A report will be asked from the health committee on the library comfort station, before a grant will be made to it.

Salaries in the city engineer's department were referred to the special committee on the reorganization of that branch. Last year's estimates for the maintenance of a car.

Streets, bridges and sidewalks estimates were tabled, pending a detailed report from the city engineer. Irving along with estimated costs for sanitary work.

Beverage, Elk Lake Farm and Park, and water works estimates were also tabled for fuller investigation.

Miscellaneous expenses, with the exception of those for interest, Publicity Bureau, C.P.C.T. and the B.C. Agricultural Association and repairs at the Willow grounds, were passed.

All other sections of the estimates were accepted as submitted by the committee.

RADICAL CHANGES NEEDED, DECLARES LEADER OF C.C.F.

"It was difficult as one heard the boom of guns," said the speaker, "not to recall the very heart of the matter, where the screams of women and children pronounce the ultimate fate of the government."

There is also a striking contrast between the glittering efficiency of the ceremonies and the disappointing, but not unexpected, inefficiency of our province's economic order.

"The members for Saanich and South Okanagan were to be congratulated on their maiden speeches in the House," he continued. "A sentence in the speech of the former introduced one into the very heart of the matter. He had said that the sale of timber the province must compete with all the other timber-producing countries in the world; that there was a great market requiring for its satisfaction no expensive machinery for its invasion. In little like Victoria and Vancouver the most casual visitor could scarcely but be struck with the great number of derelict houses whose occupation was only the necessary result of the deplorable conditions."

SUM CONDITIONS
"New as our country is, we have already in our cities the slum conditions of older countries. Even in our rural districts the decaying house and barn are only too frequent. Surely in the property organized and socialized economy we should find no difficulty in replacing on a generous scale these derelict buildings."

"So long as our ideal for production is the supply of the foreign markets of the world rather than the requirements of our own people, or, in other words, so long as we have a trade or in its exports and its favorable trade balance, rather than in the prosperity and well-being of our own citizens," he said.

CONFERS WITH GERMAN OFFICIALS

Unemployment Insurance Scheme Is Advocated

NEILL RESOLUTION
The subject was brought up in a resolution from A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, who said the matter had been discussed, investigated and studied long enough. Now was the time to move forward. He claimed Premier Bennett had promised legislation would be presented before the dissolution of the present Parliament, and predicted this would be the last session of the present House.

Mr. Neill asked the members to endorse a proposal that the most effective way to insure protection during periods of unemployment, "which unemployment insurance should provide," was to make such legislation national in its scope.

A national scheme would relieve the burden on the country to a considerable degree in times of crisis such as the country was passing through, he said.

ITS LAST SESSION
Mr. Neill contended the last opportunity for the government to implement any national unemployment insurance scheme was at the current session. This, said Mr. Neill, would be the last term of the present Parliament.

If any blocking of a national insurance scheme, the Dominion should say which one, contended Mr. Neill. This would enable the government to be brought against that particular province.

INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM
The bill of unemployment was national or international and not local, and any national unemployment insurance scheme to be successful would have to be brought about by Dominion legislation or by provinces acting jointly, he said.

G. D. Stanley, Conservative, Calgary East, favored unemployment insurance at the earliest date feasible.

The scheme would be an "insurance" one, said Dr. Stanley, to grant benefits to those who came under the plan.

The system should be contributory where employers and employees would contribute their share under the benefits to be taken.

URGES EARLY START
Support for the Neill resolution was voiced by Angus Macdonald, Labor, Vancouver South. Unemployment, he said, was inseparable from the present capitalist system. At least a contributory system should be started. It would not be possible to apply it to all men now out of work, but a start could be made to look after persons who might be out of work six months or a year hence. He suggested starting on a modest scale and extending the system as the occasion might warrant.

CO-OPERATION ADVOCATED
Hon. Peter Heenan, former Liberal Minister of Labor, declared there would be no constitutional difficulty which could not be overcome in an unemployment insurance scheme.

The member for Kenora was still speaking when the House reached time for adjournment.

ada and whether manufacturers should be established to regulate industry, acting along the lines of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners.

Finally the Dominion statistician suggested consideration of whether an advisory economic council should be appointed along the lines of the National Research Council.

MANY FIGURES PRESENTED
The committee under the chairmanship of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, resumed its inquiry this forenoon into the distribution and other business methods of the Dominion. Mr. Coats, the only witness to-day, presented a mass of figures relating to price spread, tracing, for instance, comparative prices for bread and wheat. He told the committee he was prepared to give similar figures for almost any industry.

The committee adjourned until next Tuesday, when the first of the general witnesses will be heard. Richard Stappels, chairman of the Ontario minimum wage board, and G. Franco, chairman of the Quebec board, will give evidence on industrial regulations.

Prof. H. M. Cassidy of the University of Toronto, and Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, will testify on the effect of minimum wage laws on industry, probably referring also to sweatshops and other unfair labor conditions.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

SIR HENRY DRAUGHTON, FORMER MINISTER OF FINANCE AT OTTAWA, is touring western Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce as part of a campaign to insure balanced budgets throughout the country and the reduction of the cost of government. That the cost of government in Canada, which aggregates more than a billion dollars a year under all heads, is unduly high is glaringly plain, but if Sir Henry can show the various Dominion, provincial and municipal administrations how to balance their budgets and at the same time preserve the safety and health of the people and necessary public services, and maintain the operation of industry, he will deserve a pair of wings and a golden harp.

If he will show the Hon. John Hart how to meet debt charges of $12,000,000 a year, keep our schools open, our roads from becoming impassable, our social services from collapsing, our administration of law and order from becoming non-existent, and provide for unemployment, on a revenue of $19,000,000, the government will erect a statue to him on Legislature Square forty cubits high. In the year ending last March there was a deficit of more than $7,000,000, although Finance Minister Jones had shewn the expenditure by more than $5,000,000.

If Sir Henry will show Mayor Leeming how to balance his budget in the face of unemployment requirements, reduction of government grants, and at the same time meet debt charges, keep children at school, and maintain our health, police and fire-fighting services, he will be made a Freeman of the city, and every new-born baby in the place will be named after him.

Unquestionably, all Canadian governments have been extravagant in many ways and have gone heavily into debt in consequence. It probably is true, also, that certain economies can yet be effected. But it is impossible to economize sufficiently anywhere to enable the various administrative authorities to balance their budgets and meet their requirements and financial obligations. We have not observed that Sir Henry has advocated a reduction of the interest charges on money that has been borrowed, an agitation for which has developed throughout the country, and which, it is suspected in some quarters, has some relation to Sir Henry's tour. If the different authorities have to choose between this expedient—which, by the way, has been adopted in England, the United States, in fact, in every country, not even excepting Canada—and arousing the dangerous resentment of the people by the sacrifice of services vital to them, it is plain enough which alternative they will be forced to adopt in the public interest.

A UNIQUE VICTORIA VIEW

IT IS SAFE TO SAY THAT THOUSANDS of people on this continent and in Great Britain have written to the newspapers urging everybody to read "Cry Havoc"—the simple exposure of the armament trust written by Beverley Nichols.

The book in question is not meant as a literary effort and the author makes this abundantly clear at the beginning of his work and emphasizes the point as he goes on. He merely records what he has seen in Britain and in Continental Europe, and he has set down the facts which all can understand. From Canadian pulpits, dozens of Canadian newspapers, has come the appeal to all to study the contents of this remarkably outspoken work—a moving appeal in support of the cause of disarmament.

However, there are evidently some people, exclusive of those connected with the fighting services and those who are drawing dividends from the profits on the manufacture of arms, who apparently regard Mr. Nichols as an enemy of international society. Here, for example, is a letter from a Victoria citizen which appeared in a recent issue of Maclean's Magazine:

"Cry Havoc!" is mischievous propaganda and should not be published. It appeals to unthinking parents and men without courage enough to defend their own homes.

Lloyd George and others found this doctrine a drawing card for votes, and the result was that hundreds of thousands of lives were sacrificed through our lack of armament at the commencement of the Great War. Thank God we are returning to sanity, and L. G. and his ilk are in the back benches.

There will always be war as long as men and nations are ambitious and greedy. The armament firms are manufacturing arms for money just as Mr. Nichols writes his books for money, with the exception that making munitions is a gentleman's game compared with lulling the public to sleep by false theories.

War is hell, but infinitely worse is serfdom, which is the ultimate fate of most conquered countries. The foundation of all law and order in man or nations is the "big stick," notwithstanding all Mr. Nichols's fine-drawn distinctions and shallow theories.

The letter, of course, furnishes its own commentary. But one sentence strikes a strange political note. The writer says "Thank God we are returning to sanity, and Lloyd George and his ilk are in the back benches."

A CANADIAN FLAG

EVERY TIME THE PROPOSAL FOR A Canadian flag comes up for discussion at Ottawa most of the government members get cold feet and run away from the issue. On Monday, Mr. C. H. Dickie, Conservative member for Nanaimo, took the initiative and carried some government supporters with him along with the Liberals and Progressives; but a Conservative motion to adjourn the debate—tantamount to killing the proposal, as far as this session is concerned—was carried by a vote of sixty-four to forty-nine.

Members who supported the flag had one thing in common—they all wanted the Union Jack to be incorporated. Mr. Dickie suggested an azure blue background with the Union Jack in the corner and a bronze maple leaf in the fly. And a general allusion was made to the fact Canada stood alone among the Dominions without a national flag.

It will be recalled that in 1931, Mr. C. R. McIntosh, Liberal member for North Battleford, brought in a resolution asking that a special committee be appointed to consider a distinctive Canadian flag. Last year Mr. McIntosh introduced the question again. But on neither occasion did he get anywhere. But it was hoped this time, with a government member taking the initiative, that some progress would be made. Mr. Bennett, however, does not seem to be able to bring himself to the point from which he can stretch his "Canada-First" policy to embrace a Canadian flag.

All of the other British Dominions—which have their own flags—must wonder why it is that a country with ten and a half millions of people continues to roll its eyes when the suggestion of a national emblem is mentioned.

WAGES IN INDUSTRY

ONE OF THE EARLY DEFICIENCIES OF the various NRA measures was the failure of wages to keep abreast of the upward trend of commodity prices. As the main purpose of these regulations was not merely to aid employment but also to expand purchasing power in the form of wages, it was obvious the entire conception would be nullified unless a living wage standard was maintained. The authorities therefore dealt with the question of working conditions by means more or less drastic with favorable results for the country as a whole.

There is no NRA in Canada, although several key industries have adopted the codes relative to quantity of production, price and working conditions, in order that their product could qualify for free admission to the United States market. But whatever recovery measures we may adopt, it is plain that they can not be effective unless the purchasing power of employees is maintained.

If Canada, by the negotiation of trade treaties, the expenditure of a considerable sum for the appointment of trade commissions and by other means, is able to expand the markets for our products, it should see that the industries which benefit from those measures adopt a reasonable standard of working conditions, especially in respect of wages, subject, of course, to the capacity of those industries to meet this requirement. More employment should, really mean more purchasing power. Unless it does, there can be no economic recovery here or anywhere else.

Prime Minister Bennett says imperial trade preference was the dream of Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Laurier government did more than dream about it. It adopted the policy and extended generous tariff conditions to British and other empire products, without haggling and bargaining over it. It did not demand that Great Britain impose customs taxation on her people as an essential condition of the policy, and instead of the friction and bitterness which have arisen out of the Ottawa agreements, Canada's trade with Great Britain was shortly doubled in an atmosphere of inter-empire good-will.

So many people are seeing a Cadborosaurus in various parts of the world that it has ceased to be a novelty. One was seen in Loch Ness, another in the Caribbean Sea, while the officers of a ship off Mexico think their vessel rammed one. Our own Caddy has now been seen off Nanaimo. It is unfortunate that the sea-serpent invariably appears to people who have no photographing apparatus. It seems to be as camera shy as the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

It is just one crisis after another for stocky little Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria. No sooner did he crush the Socialist uprising in his country than he received an ultimatum from the leader of the Austrian Nazis, who is exiled in Munich, giving him eight days in which to come to terms with them. He is also having trouble with his Heimwehr Fascists. Evidently Austria's troubles are only beginning, which accounts for the uneasiness of Italy, between whose Fascist government and the Nazism of Hitler there is steadily growing bitterness. Italy is irreconcilably opposed to the amalgamation of Germany and Austria, and realizes that a successful Nazi coup against Dollfuss would bring that about. Since France also would resist such a junction to the last, there has necessarily developed a more intimate relation between France and Italy than has existed for a long time.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CHEESE PRODUCTION
 The Calgary Herald

It is disappointing to note that the manufacture of cheese in Canada for the year 1933 was eleven and one-half million pounds less than for the previous year, and the lowest of any year since 1890. This would seem to indicate that Canada is not greatly interested in the development of her cheese industry.

ADVICE TO SKATERS
 The Sherbrooke Record

The Sherbrooke Record gives this good advice: Skate only when you're sure the ice is four inches thick; one-inch thick, keep off; two inches, you may, alone; three inches, in small groups only; four inches, a.k. That's the rhyme and reason with which you can avoid having a going-to-glory skate over deep water.

CANADIAN "PEACE DRIVE"
 The Spectator

The "peace drive" which a number of leaders of public opinion in Canada are organizing is in line with the attitude the senior Dominion has habitually adopted at international conferences at Geneva and elsewhere. With "the education of public opinion on ways of preserving peace" as the guiding principle, the wireless, the press, the churches, universities, clubs and schools are all being used as vehicles for getting the mind of the people focussed on aims and methods. Canada, with the equal loyalty of her two races and with her historic undivided southern frontier, has a peculiar contribution to make to any discussion on reconciliation and confidence, and the campaign about to be launched will not fail to make its impression in the United States as well as in this country and the other Dominions. If they hope to escape entanglement in a new war, it is essential that, like Canada they should study practical means for maintaining peace.

A THOUGHT

Abide thou with me, fear not; for he that seeketh my life seeketh thy life; but with me thou shalt be in safeguard.—Matthew 23.

Faith is obedience, not compliance.—George MacDonald.

Across the Bay

We start the lengthy business of getting down to business—We hear the voice of youth in the New Deal.

Mr. Whittaker discloses the main part of the government's mind—Dr. Harris sees a New Era—and Dr. Uphill wears a new kind of symbolic shirt.

By H. H. W.

BUSINESS

THE EIGHTEENTH LEGISLATURE got down to business on Wednesday, or almost. It takes a little time to get down to real business. Probably it will take all the rest of this week and the next while the Legislature collects its thoughts and learns its way around among the grave issues of these times. But at least a start has been made, the gilt and glitter of the opening day have been removed (and the friendly smiles also), and we have started to find out what the Eighteenth Legislature is really like when it has dropped its company manners.

Our first impression of it was good, but not exciting. The debate on the Speech from the Throne, which means the debate on everything but the Speech from the Throne, was officially launched by the two youngest Liberals, who defeated two of the oldest Conservatives in the last House. Young Norman Whittaker, who beat Dr. Tolmie in Saanich, moved the ancient and whimsical resolution thanking the Lieutenant-Governor for his "gracious speech," and young Dr. Harris, who bowled J. W. Jones off his ancient seat of South Okanagan, seconded it.

Here was the voice of youth and the New Deal for the first time in our midst—earnest, determined, confident. But it was surprising to find it so mild, so restrained, so humble and deferential. The House had expected to see in the men who beat Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Jones, hardened young warriors with good steel in their hands. Instead, it found in Mr. Whittaker and Dr. Harris two serious students, who spoke in quiet voices, without a gesture, without the least attempt at oratory, but with a very clear notion of what they wanted to say.

NEW TOUCH

IT WAS RATHER A NEW TOUCH at this stage of the proceedings, no party politics, no ballyhoo, no prejudice, no disinterment of the unhappy past. If this is the voice of British Columbia youth in the hour of our trial, if this is the voice which one of these days will speak in tones of authority, probably the country will not go to the dogs after all.

Mr. Whittaker got the business of the session under way with all the usual compliments which he is bound by tradition to pay to everyone. That is the job of the member, no prejudice, no party politics, no ballyhoo, no disinterment of the unhappy past. If this is the voice of British Columbia youth in the hour of our trial, if this is the voice which one of these days will speak in tones of authority, probably the country will not go to the dogs after all.

TEETH

THUS, WE LEARNED, though it was hardly news, that we are to have wage laws and hours of work laws with plenty of teeth in them. Wages up to $600 for unmarried persons and $1,200 for married persons are to be exempted from taxation, or at least so Mr. Whittaker broadly hinted. Debt must somehow be written down. Capital must not be allowed to exploit the worker. Work must be provided for the unemployed—all unexceptionable sentiments and earnestly uttered, but without any definite plan for putting them into effect. That is a matter for the government to decide, but meanwhile Mr. Whittaker was evidently authorized to outline its general philosophy of life.

The House listened to Mr. Whittaker cordially and without interruption, for he had nothing unkind to say about anyone. Even his peaceful approach to the problems of the day, however, evidently furnished some food for future argument, since most of the C.C.F. members started to take notes, which will be useful when they find their feet later on.

Mr. Uphill, for his part, was at pains to show that, as a Labor man, he not only disagreed with the Liberals and Conservatives, but had gone still further to the left than the C.C.F. Mr. Uphill, who used to dress quite nattily in the last Legislature, took his seat with unbecoming haste. Mr. Tolmie, dressed in a khaki shirt without a tie—the first Brown Shirt in this assembly, the badge of a belligerent working man, perhaps, suspects the C.C.F. of being a little high-hat.

SCIENTIST

DR. HARRIS is the young scientist in politics, who addressed the House on a scientific plane with an earnestness which commanded respect. A tall, good-looking young chap who has learned no tricks of oratory yet and doesn't quite know what to do with his hands, Dr. Harris approaches public life as he approaches a laboratory problem, quietly, logically in a low voice, such as he might use to a group of students gathered around a test tube.

There you have in this House for the first time one of the restless, curious, disillusioned but determined youngsters of our era who have found out what is wrong with the world and are determined to fix it.

At once, therefore, he sweeps aside the mere formalities of the debate and the minor matters mentioned in the Speech from the Throne and plunges into a scientific analysis of the world's ills and problems and civilization's more baffling aspects. He tells us that we are now in the course of history's greatest and most dangerous revolution, that a new civilization is coming but of the crucible of these times. Speaking as a chemist who already in known all over the continent for his own researches he pronounces, this a civilization of chemistry wherein science will overhaul our entire way of doing things.

BURN Kirk's Coal

"DOES LAST LONGER"

HARNESS

WITH AN ENTHUSIASM which he keeps well under control he tells of the marvels already under way in the laboratories, unknown to most of us, of processes which will turn our economic system upside down if we don't harness them to our uses. That seems to be the problem and the opportunity—we must use these processes to improve the lot of the average man.

In British Columbia, Dr. Harris is happy to say, we have all the essentials of the new chemical age—coal, wood and water power. With these and the application of research we can solve our economic problem—provided we show as much intelligence in the science of economics and government as we are showing in technology.

Dr. Harris is a little impatient, as well he may be, with our economic and political stupidity, but while he is rather over the heads of most of us when he talks of chemistry, he rather underestimates the intelligence of the House on these other questions of government. He rather inclines to regard these seasoned representatives of the people as a class of college students in their first year. He carefully explains to them quite a lot of things that men like Mr. Paulino know before Dr. Harris ever saw South Okanagan or the age of chemistry.

REBEL

BUT NO ONE resents that. Everyone knows that this young man's indictment of the generation which has run the world into the hole is just and reasonable. Everyone is glad to see a little of the rebel in him, even if he speaks with restraint in the style of the lecture room. Everyone appreciates, too, his genuine gift of fluent expression, his ability to make phrases like "the prevalent bluff and bluster of industrial consequent" everyone understands his bitter protest that British Columbia has everything it needs to make it prosperous, to remove hardship of every sort and yet somehow cannot do it.

Finally he gets back to South Okanagan and tells us the fruit industry can be put on its feet by the manufacture of its surplus products into useful commodities—if we would only apply scientific methods and research. He ends with a fervent prayer that this House will play a man's part in the new age which he believes, has already dawned—altogether a worthy speech and well made, particularly when you realize that he has never risen in this hall before, but not the kind of stuff to whom the House up to any real excitement. That, one suspects, will come later when Mr. McGee and the C.C.F. get going.

The C.C.F. will get going to-day, Mr. Connell having the debate and the House having gone home for the night after its first baptism of fire, satisfied with its first day's work.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

FOR SPRING'S RETURN

I am waiting now for the springtime,
 Which I know will come again.
 And I this year forget the heavy winter
 And the drumming of winter rain.
 There's no promise to-day of joyous
 Or the green reed-beds of the grass:
 But I know when the south winds come once
 This chill from the earth will pass.

I am waiting through ice-locked hours
 The still of a life that sleeps.
 I am waiting the budding and blossom time
 That is hid in my spirit's deep:
 And I know when the pealed joys will unfold
 When the notes of peace will sing in my heart
 And the spring will return as of old.

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 400 words. It positively will not print lengthy communications.

THE GORDON DRUMS

To the Editor:—The Germans never captured a Gordon drum in battle, they got them as loot in a storehouse. The British bell is a genuine war trophy. Stick to it, Australia.

L. CRABTREE,

SWANS AT ELK LAKE

To the Editor:—I see in your paper that the question of the swans being removed from Elk Lake has been referred to the parks and beaches committee. It is to be hoped that this very representative and reasonable body of men will take the necessary steps to put an end to the nuisance of swans and geese on Elk Lake, our beautiful body of water which so many of us have liked to enjoy in the summer, and which since the advent of these birds, has been taken away from us. The swans and geese are, after all, only a rich man's hobby, and the men who are sponsoring them could buy one of the small lakes round the city to maintain their flocks and leave our summer outing place unspoiled.

MRS. B. FARMER,
 328 George Road, Victoria.

PORT ALBERT

To the Editor:—I am instructed by the City Council to request you have published in your paper a warning to the unemployed to keep away from Port Albert, as there is not sufficient work for residents, many of whom are on relief.

There have recently been items in the press which are misleading, and unfortunately bringing many from other centres in the hope of finding plenty of remunerative employment, but find themselves stranded, without work, and spent their last cent to get here. These unfounded reports only increase the suffering of those who have already faced extreme financial difficulties.

H. BRADY,
 City Clerk.

TARIFF UNJUSTIFIED

To the Editor:—In a letter appearing in your issue of February 20, your correspondent, Mr. T. Midgley, concludes a letter in defence of tariffs by a question as to whether a tariff is not the only method to protect a country and its industries.

A tariff does one of two things: It either keeps out the goods or it does not. If the object is to keep them out, the logical course is to prohibit their importation.

If a tariff does not keep goods out the worker is not protected.

The effect of a tariff is to raise the price to the consumer and, if he thus has to pay a bigger proportion of his income for that class of goods, he has just that much less to spend in other directions and those trades suffer instead.

If the British consumer can save a dollar by buying Japanese goods, he has the dollar to spend on home-made goods that otherwise would have been unbought.

Apart from this obvious fact, Japanese goods imported into Britain have in the final result to be paid for by goods exported from Britain. Stop the imports and you automatically stop the exports. If the British are getting many goods in exchange for a few, why shut them out?

No system of tariffs has yet been devised which could protect more than 10 per cent of the people. The other 90 per cent do the protecting, and every dollar put into the pockets of the protected worker costs the consumer five dollars. It has been frequently demonstrated that it would be far less costly to pension off all workers in protected industries at full wages, than to foot the national tariff bill.

The protection most needed by the worker to-day is protection from his own country's borders, so that he can have freedom to produce as well as to exchange.

LOGGERS' STRIKE

To the Editor:—Reports in some of the leading daily newspapers of Vancouver Island and the mainland that a settlement might soon be expected of the strike in the logging industry, are likely to mislead, and it seems, deliberately inspired to have an adverse effect on the fine support given the workers by all classes in their struggle for fair wages and the right to organize.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHURCH SOCIETIES

CENTENNIAL

The young people of Centennial United Church held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the church parlors. The meeting opened with a short devotional period, after which Donald McCain, president of the Young People's Union of the United Church, thanked the group for their interest in the union during the past year. Next week's meeting will be cancelled so that the society will be able to attend the oratorical contest to be held in the Metropolitan Church Sunday schoolroom, February 27, at 8 o'clock. Bernard Enns, is the representative for Centennial, winning the contest held in the group. The meeting closed with a short recreation period under the leadership of Frank Hollins.

WILKINSON ROAD

The Wilkinson Road Young People's Society met Tuesday evening with a good attendance of members and visitors. Dorothy Hodgson led the devotional period. Mrs. W. J. Jewell, who visited the Chicago World's Fair, gave an interesting talk on her experiences, illustrating them with pictures as she continued. Some of the points she especially stressed were the Chalice of Antioch, the wonderful exhibit displayed by the Salvation Army, the horticultural building and many of the other buildings. Next week all the members are requested to attend the oratorical contest at the Metropolitan Church.

KNOX Y.P.S.

The meeting closed with the Mispah benediction.

METROPOLITAN

After a brief business period presided over by Bob Milligan, vice-president, the society held separate group meetings for a short time. The literary committee took charge of the programme for the evening when a number of very fine slides on grounds set aside for Canadian National Park in British Columbia were shown by George M. Warren. Next week the meeting will be in charge of the Presbyterian Young People's Association when the second in the series of debates will be held in the Sunday school room of St. Andrew's Church. W. G. Stone congratulated the branch on their new quarters. Referring to the petition regarding ex-service men's pensions which is being sent to Ottawa, Mr. Stone remarked that he thought their patriotism and loyalty to Canada had been taken advantage of. He urged his hearers to be loyal to their branch.

Comrade C. A. Gill, secretary to the district council, spoke of the provincial convention to be held in June at Portland.

F. Sparks of the Pro Patria Branch was also present. Cards were enjoyed, bridge and 500 and cribbage being played. The winners at bridge were Mrs. Jonas and C. H. Harrison, while Mrs. A. A. F. Marriage Proceeds With or Without Consent of Swedish Royalty

Associated Press
London, Feb. 22.—With or without royal consent, the wedding of Prince Sigvard of Sweden and Erika Patsek, pretty German actress, will proceed as planned.

So far as is known to-day, the only guests expected at the simple wedding planned for March 8 are Erika's father, Anton Patsek, Berlin business man, and her mother. It is understood they will be married at the London registry office.

Both the prince and Fraulein Patsek remained in seclusion after the prince, son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, had turned a deaf ear to Count Folke Bernadotte, who flew to London to dissuade them from marrying.

The love of the young Swedish prince for the blonde German film actress prevailed to-day against the strenuous opposition of his family.

After their marriage the pair plan to return to Germany, where Sigvard will continue his work in the UFA film company of Berlin, where he is known as the popular Herr Holger, and where the bride-to-be also has been employed.

Fraulein Patsek is the daughter of a commoner, Anton Patsek, a Berlin business man.

Laughter gaily at royal persons who believe princes should marry princesses, the young couple planned to obtain a special license and become plain Mr. and Mrs. Bernadotte.

They're just a young couple, head over heels in love, and it is unlikely anyone will change their minds," one of the twenty-seven-year-old prince's friends said to-day.

TRAVEL TALK
AT CONCERT

Mrs. J. O. Cameron Tells of Visit to World's Fair at Chicago

Before an attentive and appreciative audience at the Musical Art Society's concert at the Shrine Auditorium yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. O. Cameron gave an interesting, descriptive talk on a visit to the Century of Progress Fair in Chicago last summer as well as incidents and impressions connected with other cities visited during her trip to the United States.

On their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were visitors at the World's Fair held in Chicago in 1893, so Mrs. Cameron was able to make comparison of the vast strides made by science during the intervening years, and cited for example one exhibit that had been featured at both the World's Fair and the Century of Progress Exhibition.

In 1893, the late President Cleveland took part in the proceedings that attended the lighting of the fair by incandescent lights and the inventor, Edison was present to give additional prestige to the event.

At the Century of Progress Fair a ray from Arcturus that left the star forty light years ago was used to put into action the vast system of illumination that was used, first that made it difficult for one to contemplate what might be evolved during the next forty years.

Canada's exhibit, a huge airplane map formed one of the interesting sights of the fair. Touching upon the main exhibits of the different countries Mrs. Cameron described the jade pagoda sent from China, the pageant of vehicles and the "History of the World" exhibit, and modes of transportation, and many others.

From Chicago Mr. and Mrs. Cameron went to St. Thomas, Ontario, where they visited Mrs. Gertrude Huntly Green, formerly of Victoria and then on to Toronto, Montreal and hence to the States. At West Point, N. Y., they were present at a dress parade of between one and three thousand students. In Nashville, Tenn., they visited the reproduction of the Pantheon of Athens, which has been constructed there in exact replicas from old maps made by the architects. In a Texas town they were astonished to meet a party of pipers who were parading merrily along playing the pipes. At Carlsbad in New Mexico, Mrs. Cameron was taken a thousand feet down into a potash mine, the first woman to have been taken into the mine.

In Memphis, Mrs. Cameron saw exhibited the first piano brought to the States, and curious to test its condition, Mrs. Cameron played a tune on it and found it still had dulcet tones.

An experience she had crossing the desert in Arizona gave evidence of the marvelous strides made in science. Crossing this same stark bare area was a monotonous and tiresome journey. On this occasion it was traversed in a high-powered motor car, and to relieve the monotony they tuned into a phonograph and enjoyed operatic music through their radio equipment.

Showing the advance made in the language, Mrs. Cameron cited that in 1829 Webster's Dictionary was in two volumes and contained 70,000 words. In eighty years 440,000 words were added, and in the last five years 5,000 words have been incorporated owing to the words brought into use through aviation, television and all the new discoveries.

The programme was opened by Isabelle Pike, a young pianist of Victoria, whose rendition of Debussy's "Arabesque" brought hearty applause as well as her other numbers, four short Chopin Preludes.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. W. H. Wilson, her place on the programme was filled by Mrs. W. A. Jameson, who presented two groups of songs, accompanied by Miss Elsie Friend, "Solitaire Song" from Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite," "Cloths of Heaven" (Dunhill), and "But My Bird Is Long in Coming" (Sibelius) for her first, and for her second, "The Song of the Lark" and "The Song of the Lark" (Sibelius).

The concluding number on the programme was the quartet scene from Sheridan's "School for Scandal," with the two clever young actors, Miss Helen Harris and Mr. Henry Worthington, in the roles of Lady Teazle and her elderly husband.

HOMELESS GIRL IS WANDERER

Canadian Press

Calgary, Feb. 21.—Annie Flockheart, seventeen years old, is a girl "without a home."

She came to Calgary from Vancouver six months ago, beating her way on a freight train, and the journey nearly ended in tragedy. She fell from the train at Field, B.C., but was able to continue the trip east.

Annie has appeared in court on three different occasions here, has escaped twice from religious homes where she was placed by the authorities, and now has been received she is not wanted in Vancouver. Her parents have refused to pay her railway fare to the coast.

Found in a downtown house after her most recent escape from a religious home, she was arraigned in court this morning and released from custody—given "another chance."

WIVES TOO KIND IN MANY CASES

But They Adore Surrendering
Their Rights to Those Whom
They Love

By HELEN WELSHIMER

Most children grow up thinking that their mothers don't like candy. They can prove it, too, they will tell you. Every time they have a bag of licorice drops or chocolate creams and pass them to their mothers, those ladies smile, thank them kindly, but add that they aren't taking any. Of course the child begins to think that his mother's sweet tooth was pulled long, long ago.

But the truth of it is that those ladies are being unselfish, that's all. They know that the youngster who went to the candy shop clutching a coin in a moist little hand, has evaluated his purchase and knows exactly how long its flavor will last. The mothers want to be unselfish.

According to Mary Pickford, such women are making a big mistake. Wives, so she says, are often too kind. His goes so far as to suggest a school where they might be taught to be reasonably selfish. All in all, it is a fairly good idea. Women, wives and mothers and office secretaries should present their demands and ask credit. Just because a man likes lemon pie and a woman doesn't is no reason at all why every pie that comes out of the oven should be lemon. If pumpkin is her favorite, why shouldn't the man with the citrus taste sample a pumpkin pie occasionally? Or, better still, only it's more work for the woman, of course! . . . why not bake two small pies so each can eat in peace?

SHE WILL WORRY

Because a man wants to spend his vacation on a peaceful farm in the country is no reason why his wife, who is hungry for cool mountain wind or the winy touch of salt air should devote her two weeks of relief listening to the lowing of the sheep, and droning of the bees in the clover. If the two can't co-operate, each having half time in his chosen Paradise, why can't the woman pack her bag and stop pouring her husband's breakfast coffee for fourteen days?

But she won't. Not the usual woman. She will worry, if she does. Worry about one of two things. Either that her husband will find someone else to pour the amber fluid or that he will take it too strong or endure it too weak since she isn't there to interfere.

For women naturally are unselfish. They adore surrendering their rights to those whom they love. And those whom they love seldom realize that the surrender is made, which is the tragedy note in the whole theme. If they do contemplate . . . between molasses kisses and coconut bars . . . they reflect that she didn't want any anyway or that the recipient of the sacrifice is permitting the sacrifice a great treat. She likes to do it. That settles everything!

WRAP THEIR FAVORS
Yes, Miss Pickford is right. If the women who have made themselves into something resembling the velvet coat that Sir Walter Raleigh spread so England's queen wouldn't get muddy feet, would make some requests, their husbands and children would regard them more highly. Every woman sets her own price. No man, whether he is seven or seventeen or thirty-seven, maintains a steady admiration for something that is his for the taking. Yet, the unselfishness and kindness in women make them wrap their favors and send them C.O.D.

Certainly women should be as kind as ever. As considerate and loyal and understanding. But if Miss Pickford's proposed school, where they might be taught to be reasonably selfish, were instead of the cauliflower preferred by the men whom they love, honor and, yes, obey, they would make the men considerably more inviting.

Featured Golf Week Entertainer

GERTRUDE SPROULE

Vancouver dancer who will make her first appearance of the week at the specially novelty entertainment in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, commencing at 9 o'clock this evening. Miss Sproule will also be seen at the concluding golf cabaret on Saturday night when she will present special Spanish and Mexican dances.

Golf Cabaret Was Attractive Affair

Two Hundred People Attended
Gay Midweek Function at Empress Last Night

An atmosphere of unalloyed gaiety pervaded the Crystal ballroom of the Empress Hotel last night when 200 dancers entered thoroughly into the enjoyment of the mid-week cabaret held in connection with the C.P.R. golf tournament.

It was a particularly lively affair, with large parties of golfers and their friends occupying tables decorated with colorful tulips arranged about the ballroom in cabaret style. A splendid repertoire of dance music interpreted by Billy Tickle and his Empress Orchestra contributed in large measure to the success of the evening, combined with the color-spotlighting effects.

CLEVER NUMBERS
The fan dance, presented by Miss Thelma Stratford and Miss Kathleen Mann as the opening number of the cabaret programme was cleverly executed and the costumes strikingly effective. The girls appeared in abbreviated costumes of pale rose and silver lace, with long divided skirts edged by electric blue marabou. Two blue and silver fans were carried by each of the dancers and these accessories were manipulated with startling effect.

The smiling Miss Berna Waring was charming as a Latin belle in her conception of the Argentine tango, one of the most finished numbers of the entire programme. She was particularly beautiful in black net and silver and injected the Spanish temperament into her castanet dance.

The spectacular Adagio was the vehicle for some really amazing athletic dancing by Miss Thelma Stratford, supported by Dan Slater and Jimmy Walt, who appeared in costumes of white velvet ornamented by gold sequins.

The concluding number of the special entertainment was offered by the Misses Thelma Stratford, Patricia Pennock, Mary Gootenka and "Doudie" McAlpine, who in ensembles of orange and green, scored a direct hit with their novelty tap dancing act.

The high order of the cabaret turns was indicated by the applause which greeted each number. Several encores were given by the artists.

MANY GUESTS
Many of the golfers visiting here from outside points were noticed among the dancers.

Those attending the cabaret included: Hon. A. Wells Gray, the Misses Janet and Hyalop Gray, Hon. Frank M. MacPherson and Mrs. MacPherson, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Finland, Miss G. Hayden (Winnipeg), Col. Don MacGugan, Miss Kathleen Wilson, Mr. Harold Hubbard, Major and Mrs. H. A. ## EARL TO WED PRETTY DANCER

Earl of Suffolk to Wed Dancer

Associated Press
London, Feb. 22.—The engagement was announced yesterday of the young Earl of Suffolk and Mimi Crawford, a beautiful dancer.

The Earl, Charles Henry George Howard, is a grandson of the American Levi Letter, Chicago merchant, and owns 10,000 acres at Wilshire.

Miss Crawford is the niece of Lord Chalmers, the late governor-general of Ceylon. Her father is the stage manager of the Alhambra Theatre.

It will be the first marriage for each. The twenty-eight-year-old earl has crammed plenty of adventure into his life. He sailed around the world at seventeen as an apprentice in a windjammer, whose crew knew him as "Howard." He ran his own sheep ranch in New South Wales before returning to England. Miss Crawford's real name is Mimi Forde Pigott.

KAY FRANCIS
GETS DIVORCE

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—The third marriage of Kay Francis, thirty-year-old brown-eyed film actress, was terminated yesterday with an interlocutory decree of divorce granted against Kenneth McKenna, actor and director.

She charged cruelty in seeking for the legal action to undo the wedding knot that was tied three years ago at Catalina Island.

In court where the screen star told her troubles to-day, the case was listed as Katherine Gibbs Melisner against Leon Melisner Jr., their real life names. They separated last December.

Her previous marriages were with William Gaston and J. Dwight Francis.

LINENS NEED CAREFUL WASHING AND IRONING
By SISTER MARY

Every housewife takes infinite pride in her household linens but the life-long beauty of all linens is dependent on its care. Correct methods of washing and ironing are vastly important. Careless handling, strong alkali soaps and bleaching mixtures destroy the natural lustre of linen and the heavy satin texture of damask.

Choose a pure mild soap and wash linens in a heavy suds, squeezing the sudsy water through the fabric rather than rubbing. Few laundresses realize that rubbing roughens the fine fibre and shortens the life of all linens. Linen naturally washes easily because it does not hold the dirt in the obstinate, fashion characteristic of cotton.

Use very little bluing in the last rinse water for linens. Linen absorbs much more readily than do cotton fabrics.

Never starch linen. This applies to all household linens. Linen possesses a natural sheen and body that does not require the addition of starch.

IRON DAMASK CAREFULLY

The final finished beauty of damask lies in the care with which it is ironed. It must be quite damp and ironing must be continued until it is perfectly dry, ironing on the wrong side first and then on the right and working from sevice to sevice. This will gain the highest possible lustre and body.

Many women make the mistake of not ironing their damask dry enough and not having it damp enough to begin with. Too hot an iron is another common fault. It takes time, patience and delight in the finished article to iron damask properly.

Iron monograms and embroidery on the wrong side over a heavy pad. Some experts suggest a bath towel as a pad, but the rough weave is apt to leave its imprint on the plain linen. Heavy flannel makes an excellent pad for embroidery and lace.

Even in the "best regulated families" accidents will happen to table linens; so some knowledge of how to remove stains is a great help in preserving the beauty of napkins and table-and-lunch cloths.

There is one essential point to keep in mind about stains; remove the stain as soon as possible, never leave it for attention when laundered. The sooner it is removed the easier it is to do.

And now for ways to remove a few of the most common stains without the aid of commercial stain removers. In using one of the many excellent stain removers on the market, be sure to follow the directions accompanying it implicitly. The manufacturer who puts out the remover goes to great pains to give instructions insuring the best results.

REMOVING BEVERAGE STAINS
To remove coffee stains, stretch linen over a bowl and pour boiling water through it. For tea stains first pour on glycerine and then pour boiling water through the stain.

Chocolate stains are hard to remove if you do not know how and ordinary washing may "set" the stain so it is almost impossible to remove it. First sprinkle powdered borax over the stain and soak in cold water for twenty

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ALDRID

Most mothers have to admit that they are somewhat afraid of their children. Everything goes smoothly so long as the mother lays down the law and the child treads this charmed way without rebellion. But when the child says no, and ignores repeatedly what his mother says, she has only one weapon with which to meet the situation—the figurative, if not actual crack of the whip.

Suppose we admit that we fear disobedience because we are not ready to meet it. Suppose we admit that the child's greatest knowledge of power can come only because we show him that we are confused and upset and helpless. Then the answer becomes absurdly simple. Do not let him see it.

There is no way in which a mother admits her fear and helplessness any more plainly than by spanking the child. But she buoys herself up with words. She says, "I must show him I am boss!"

Every child knows that his parents are bosses. They dress him, feed him, shelter him, protect him, furnish him money. They do not come to him for orders. They give orders. In the face of that very obvious "bossism" why must the mother flourish a weapon to proclaim and convince the child that she is his boss?

MORE SELF-CONTROL

But she must keep a rein on emotions. The child knows only too well when he has her on the run. He knows it by her tension, by her attitude of irritability, her loud words and louder spans. He knows that he has her beaten, and the knowledge is fuel to the flames.

Learn to be calm in the face of the child's opposition. Expect him to be good, instead of showing by your fear-some and distrustful attitude that you don't expect anything but disobedience.

If it is important that something be done, simply see that the child does it, not egged on by words, threats or whippings, but by the actual performance of the task. At all times keep that calm, unflustered, unfrightened air which impresses the child with your superiority and your right to suggest to him and to manage him.

Write for my leaflet, "Obedience and Punishment." A self-addressed, stamped envelope should accompany your request for it.

minutes. Then stretch over a bowl and pour boiling water through it.

Egg stains should be washed in cold water until they completely disappear. Candle wax can be removed from table linens by placing a clean blotter over the spot and pressing with a hot iron. Slip the blotter often to keep a fresh place over the spot.

Lemon juice and salt will remove iron rust. Cover the stain with salt and moisten with lemon juice. Then put in the sun. Repeat until the stain disappears.

Ex-Business Girl Who Is Bored to Death by Domesticity—Happy Couple Proves Mutual Consideration Is Secret of How to Be Happy Though Married

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have practically everything any reasonable woman can desire—a loving husband, an attractive child, a cosy home and a comfortable income, yet I am restless and discontented. The reason is because ever since I was a young girl I have been in a business office where there was something interesting doing every minute of the time, where new people with new ideas were coming in all day and I was kept on my toes all the time. Going home at night was a change and a diversion and I enjoyed it and doing my little domestic chores.

Now since so many married women have been excluded from business offices I have lost my job and I have to stay at home all the time and I am bored to tears. What I earned did not materially increase our income, because I paid for the care of my little girl, transportation, lunches, etc. Also since I have not been working my husband's salary has been advanced and he seems much happier with my being at home. But I am so lonely and so bored. How am I to fill in my days?
LOUISE.

Answer—Only women know what economic freedom means to women. Only women know that the opening of the doors of the commercial world was to them almost like the opening of the gates of Paradise, because it gave them the privilege of earning their living by doing honest work and saved them from the horror of dependence, which is the seventh hell.

The girl of to-day does not have to wear the cast-off clothing of her rich relatives nor does she have to stay at home and grub like Cinderella and live a dull and eventless life. She can get out and get her job and make the money to buy pretty frocks and to go places and do things. Nor does a girl have to get married, whether she loves a man or not, because matrimony is the only gainful occupation open to her and the only way in which she can get anything to do to fill in her time and give her an interest in life.

But for everything we get we have to pay, and a lot of women have to pay for their experience as business or professional women by having it totally unfit them for domesticity.

This is not true of all women. There are plenty of girls for whom the career of wife and mother and housekeeper is the only one. They would rather make a cake than was light and feathery than pull off a big deal, and any day they would swap a mahogany desk for a gas range. Their minds run to pots and pans and budgets instead of contracts. Their favorite reading is the cookbook and they get more thrill out of the clapping of a baby's hands than they do out of the salvoes of applause from an audience.

With girls of this type business is only a Bridge of Sighs over which they pass while walking from the schoolroom to the altar, and they are glad enough to give it all up and fulfill their predestined fate of being housewives.

But there are tens of thousands of other women, who are not domestic by temperament, who find it almost impossible to adjust themselves to a monotonous home life after having been for years in the exciting and exhilarating atmosphere of an office or after having followed a career.

They miss the thrill of using their abilities to the full and matching their wits against others. They miss the excitement of helping to plan selling campaigns and discussing new ideas. They miss the coming and the going of people. Above all, they miss the tempo of excitement in which everything was done and that kept everybody keyed up.

How flat it seems to spend your days in a little house with nothing to do but to cook and sew and scrub and clean and do the same tasks day after day with no one with whom to exchange a fresh thought! How painful to buy a dollar's worth of groceries when one has been in the habit of handling thousands!

A girl who held a high executive position in a big store married and went to housekeeping in a tiny apartment. When I asked her how she liked it she frankly replied, "I'm miserable. I don't know what to do with myself. Putting me to run a little flat is like putting a thousand-horsepower engine to do a one-horsepower job."

The only consolation one can give these business women, who have got out of their element, is that if they will stick it they will learn to like their new jobs. For housekeeping and home-making are fascinating occupations and there is nothing so exciting as rearing a child. Also, when well done, it takes all the ability and energy that any woman possesses.

And say what you will, a man does like to have a wife who is Alice-sit-by-the-fire, and who gives him a dinner to which she has given thought and personal attention instead of some cook's idea of what a hungry man wants to eat.
DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—When my husband and I were first married he said to me: "There is one thing I draw the line at and that's any form of music before or during breakfast." His wishes are abided by. But my reply was "And I refuse to sit at a table with a side view of a newspaper as my only companion." My wishes are abided by. These are just two of many suggestions of our lives and dislikes which we adjusted, and it has made us extremely considerate of each other.

He likes to put pipe ashes on the floor and splash in the bathroom and hang his coat on the knob of the bed, but I know this is not lack of consideration. It is just man. And he knows my taking a house to put on my hat-and-powder my nose-and my tite of nerves and my not having a thing to wear when my closet is overloaded with clothes is just woman. So we laugh at each other and are happy.
A. B. C.

Answer—A Daniel, a lady Daniel come to judgment! You have solved the great problem of how to be happy though married, and if all husbands and wives will follow your example we shall pass into a domestic millennium.

Just think how simple a thing it would be for husbands and wives to tip each other off to their little individual peculiarities in the way of likes and dislikes, and for them to respect each other's keep-off-the-grass signs.

They might even bargain about it. John might say "I won't sing in the bath if you won't leave the stopper of the toothpaste off." Or Mary might say "I won't row about your staying down to play poker with the boys once a week if you won't say sarcastic things when I am late in getting home from a tea."

And husbands and wives might forgive each other so many things and be so much kinder to each other if they only stopped to remember that the things that they object to are not done with malice aforethought, but just because of sex and the irreconcilable viewpoint of man and woman.
DOROTHY DIX.

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1934

Under the rule the public mind welcomes progressive ideas and finds hope in a carefully-planned system of government that assures equality of opportunity.

Schools and colleges benefit in the application of practical principles in the training of youth. Vacations are to be no longer mere chance selections, it is forecast.

Adult education now is to assume new importance in the working out of national time, if the stars are rightly aligned. Leisure is to be the supreme gift to workers, who will profit greatly through short hours of labor.

The stars declare that people have demonstrated their real nobility and elasticity of character in the lean years of depression. Although war clouds may gather in foreign lands, the United States will turn out a help to prevent any extensive armed conflict. It is foretold. Diplomats are to win many victories on the chess board of Europe and Asia.

This is a lucky day for seeking any sort of favor. It should inspire suitors as well as office-seekers.

Persons whose wealth is it have the augury of a year of good fortune. Change in business or private associations are indicated. Girls may gain their hearts' desire.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly gracious in manner and magnetic in personality. Many subjects of this sign of places emphasize the value of friendship and companionship as the chief interest of life.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Samuel P. Taylor, famous diarist; Jean Baptiste LeMoyne de Bienville, 1680, founder of New Orleans; and George Friedrich Handel, 1685, composer.

FINDS TOO MUCH FASCIST TALK

Rev. R. Connell Wonders What Church is Doing to Check Spread of Violence

"Violence is spreading from country to country in Europe and one sometimes wonders what the Church of Jesus Christ is doing to allow it to come about," said Rev. Robert Connell, opposition leader in the provincial Legislature, in an address at Memorial Hall yesterday evening.

Mr. Connell declared the church appeared to be concerned mainly with Christian life of the individual and was not teaching the essentials of Christianity in social form.

"No one dare predict what will take place in six months from now, even in our own country, and I sometimes fear that all is not so secure," Mr. Connell went on.

"I think there is too much talk of Fascism in this Dominion of Canada of ours at the present time."

"If there ever was a time when the people of the world must sink the divisions between mankind, it is in the time of common danger, and I am not so sure that a common danger does not exist now."

IN TERMS OF NON-VIOLENCE

"We must not go on trusting in the goodwill of our people; we must think in terms of non-violence, which is the spirit of Christ. What is needed is a great revival of social religion. The church has been altogether too individualistic in religious affairs."

Mr. Connell spoke on Kirby Page's new book, "Individualism and Socialism," which is an appeal to Christian people and a criticism of the social order. Mr. Page is an associate of Sherwood Eddy, international evangelist and missionary. His book, Mr. Connell said, suggests that as Christians the people must face great evils of a social nature, and in order that those evils might be removed, they must be brought home to the understanding and, to the hearts of all Christian people.

"The words of Cain, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' appear to be running rampant as the type of individualism of to-day, and we are reaping the effects of this old world individualism," he continued.

"If the Christian church and the world are to be made better, the church must be prepared to face facts, no matter how unpleasant they may be."

"Socialism is the philosophy of life based on unity of the race and is directly the opposite to individualism. This does not mean equality in every respect, but it believes in the brotherhood of man practically, and that word practically is very important."

NEW HEATING PLAN IS HEARD

Alderman Walter Luney Suggests Means of Cutting City Fuel Costs

New methods of heating schools and public buildings owned and operated by the city were suggested by Alderman Walter Luney when the council sat as the committee on estimates yesterday evening.

By means of new machinery, it was possible to use cheaper fuel and maintain a steady heat in such structures as schools and the Public Library, he stated.

A company which had approached him had guaranteed satisfaction and a sixty-day trial. Representatives had declared, with the new device, Victoria High School could be kept warm at a saving of $1,500 a year. That economy would pay for the cost of the installation in three years, they had stated.

He suggested the matter be taken up at greater length in the near future, with a view to saving the city money.

JANITORS SEEK SUPERANNUATION

Institution of the Superannuation Act benefits for janitors in Saanich schools will be sought by the janitors at a joint meeting with the municipal school board next Monday, it was learned at a board meeting yesterday evening.

The board for some time has been considering a request from the janitors in this respect, and at next week's meeting it is expected a definite policy will be adopted for this year. At the end of last year the trustees were petitioned by the required 75 per cent of the janitors to have superannuation enforced.

No allowance was made in the 1934 estimates to have the policy adopted, it being estimated the cost of the system to the board would be a minimum of $450 for this year. If a majority of the janitors press their desire at the meeting the board will be obliged to institute superannuation for this year.

NEW INFIRMARY IS SUGGESTED

Move to Build Additional Home Proposed by Alderman James Adam

Erection of a new infirmary on the city's ground adjoining the present Home for Aged and Infirm Men has been favorably considered by the home committee of the City Council, and will most probably be recommended to the council when that group has gone further into the matter.

Arguments in favor of the new structure, which would be erected at an approximate cost of $5,000, and would increase the annual costs of that institution by approximately $3,000 at the same time that it saved the city a sum far in excess of the increase, were voiced by Alderman James Adam at the meeting of the council as the committee on estimates yesterday evening.

The new building, if constructed, Alderman Adam stated, would increase the capacity of the present home by approximately fifteen inmates. It would care for infirm cases of both sexes and would take some of the city charges out of private homes, thereby effecting a considerable saving.

Recent grants, bequests and revenues had provided sufficient money to make a start on the undertaking, the alderman stated, adding it would more than justify itself through a cutting down of expense if completed.

Pending fuller consideration of the matter, the committee on estimates tabled the proposed disbursements to the Home for Aged and Infirm Men and for grants to the Aged and Infirm Women, Maple Rest and other homes.

NEW MILL FOR NANAIMO AREA

Nanaimo, Feb. 22.—Frank Beban, prominent island lumberman, has closed a deal to erect a modern mill in Nanaimo, situated to the south of the Western Fuel Company's coal wharf. Arrangements have been made with C. W. Villiers, whereby the mill will be able to procure timber from Galliano and Gabriola Islands. The proposed new assembly wharf site, favored by the federal government engineers, will be close to the Beban mill.

GET MEDALS FOR BRAVERY

Mayor Stewart of Toronto presented Royal Canadian Humane Association bronze medals for bravery to Kay Mackenzie of Toronto, and Dick White of Burlington, at the annual reunion of Wigan Lodge guests in the concert hall of the Royal York Hotel. In presenting the awards, His Worship recalled that the two young people had shown remarkable presence of mind when the launch in which they were passengers with seven others caught fire and sank on Lake Rosseau, near Windermere, last Thanksgiving Day. Dick tried to put out the fire and passed out life-preservers, and both he and Miss Mackenzie swam ashore with the passengers.

ELK LAKE HAS VALUABLE SWAN

One of Two Remaining Trumpeter Species on Continent Has Home Here

Victoria now possesses one of the two remaining Trumpeter swans, valued at $1,000 each, on the North American continent, according to Cecil French, one of the founders of the bird sanctuary at Elk Lake, who has imported a number of swans from England.

Mr. French noted an item from East Lansing, Michigan, in yesterday's paper, which stated the male member of the pair of Trumpeter swans at Michigan State University had died. It also stated the two birds were valued at $2,000.

The member of the Trumpeter species which Mr. French describes as being "the cock of the roost" at Elk Lake is six years old and came here in its wild state with a member of the Whistling species. The latter, however, has left since.

ST. JOSEPH'S AIDS NEEDY

City Council Favors Gift for Charity Work of Hospital

The right of St. Joseph's Hospital to financial recognition from the City Council for the amount of charitable work done by it for indigents in the city was seen by the council as the committee on estimates yesterday evening, when Alderman James Adam voiced arguments for the Catholic institution.

Discussion arose over the hospital vote in the estimates. Alderman Adam stated he understood application was being made to the provincial government to secure legislation which would permit the making of grants to St. Joseph's Hospital. Last year, he continued, the hospital had done $17,500 worth of charity work which would otherwise have gone to the Jubilee Hospital at the expense of the city. He moved that the sum of $2,500 be set aside for gifts to the hospital if the legislation being sought were passed.

Mayor David Leeming expressed his agreement with the points brought forward by Alderman Adam, as did Alderman R. T. Williams. "Last year we were convinced of the good work done by St. Joseph's. I move that the grant to other hospitals be raised from $35,000 to $40,000 for the present," Alderman P. R. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, said, indicating the extra $2,000 should be devoted to St. Joseph's Hospital if the city were able to make the grant.

For the purpose of meeting ex-members of the Duncan Kinamen Club, Victoria Kinamen will hold their next regular meeting at the up-island centre. The suggested date is Thursday, March 8. Confirmation is awaited from Duncan.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep-Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this province is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that a full 65c bottle of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, will swiftly, surely show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain and do it without affecting the heart or upsetting the stomach.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiful and where the patient was helpless. Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, declares all sufferers to know that Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to recommend it as above in every instance. ## NEW PONTIAC NOW ON VIEW

Improved 1934 Model Showing To-day at Cecil Eve Motors Ltd.

Pontiac straight-eights for 1934 are having their first local showing to-day at Cecil Eve Motors Ltd., 345 Yates Street, and the smart new models foreshadow still greater public favor for the eight that invaded the low-price field a year ago. The 1934 Pontiacs are larger and heavier, with a power plant of eighty-four horsepower—an increase of seven horsepower over the previous models. Fuel economy, however, is still greater, mileage said to have been raised ten per cent.

Like other General Motors cars for 1934, Pontiac has adopted "knee-action" front wheels, but of a type which differs most interestingly from those revealed by cars so far introduced. The Pontiac "knee-action" mechanism is inclosed in a sturdy sealed housing filled with oil, and two-way shock absorbers operate inside the housing. With the old rigid front axle gone, and the front wheels "stepping over" the bumps and ruts without transmitting shocks to the frame, Pontiac for 1934 gives a boulevard ride on the roughest roads. Other high spots of the new Pontiac are the increased wheelbase of 117½ inches; increase to six inches in the diameter of the tires; roomier and sturdier Fisher bodies equipped with improved ventilation of the type that swept into favor last year; a new K-Y box girder frame of tremendous strength and rigidity; and big brakes that translate light pedal pressure into safe, powerful braking force. As to these features the new straight eight motor, about which engineers are very enthusiastic, and you have a much improved car. It is, in fact, claimed for the new Pontiac engine that it is surpassed in smoothness by only one car in the whole industry—a car far above Pontiac in cost. The power plant is so capable that only fifty-five per cent of its available power is required at road speed of sixty-five miles an hour, and it is practically effortless at speeds well above eighty. Acceleration is silent and very impressive.

Several improvements contribute toward Pontiac's increased operating economy. One of them is the higher compression ratio of 6.8 to 1 permitted by the new cylinder head. More important, however, is a new method of vacuum spark control which sup-

CUTS MADE IN ASSESSMENTS

Oak Bay Court of Revision Grants Hudson's Bay Substantial Reductions

A reduction of $24,709 in assessment on Hudson's Bay Company land holdings in Oak Bay was announced by the municipal court of revision yesterday evening, when decisions were handed down in a number of appeals made recently.

The actual reduction for the company was from $200 to $250 an acre, which makes a total cut of approximately $24,709 for the 494 acres. The reduction was not applicable to the Uplands Golf Course. The appeal for a lower assessment on this property was based on the fact that it is used exclusively for agricultural purposes.

A reduction in land values and the assessment of the clubhouse was granted the Victoria Golf Club, which also entered an appeal. The clubhouse value was cut from $24,100 to $20,000, and the land was reduced $100 an acre from $2,000 an acre to $1,900. Other adjustments on property holdings in the municipality were also announced after having been held over from the last sitting of the court.

Aid Of Science Is Vital To Recovery Claims Legislator

Advance, Halted by World War, Must Be Renewed, Says Dr. J. A. Harris

Urges B.C. Research for Non-perishable Fruit Products and Coal By-products

The contribution that science can make in solving present-day industrial problems was stressed in the Legislature yesterday by Dr. J. A. Harris, Liberal, South Okanagan, in seconding the motion of thanks on the speech from the Throne.

Cellophane and artificial silk from lumber, brandy from B.C. apples, and gasoline from B.C. coal were some of the products which he saw possible by the proper application of scientific research.

As a scientist himself, the young member who defeated J. W. Jones, the Finance Minister of the last House, was speaking from an angle with which many of the members might not be familiar, but in language easy for a layman to understand he told how science could help the agricultural industry by the conversion of products into non-perishable commodities. The future of coal, too, he claimed was in the hands of the scientists.

TO SCIENTIFIC ADVANCE

"Political historians of the old school would have us believe that present-day conditions are the direct result of the World War, high tariff schedules, war reparations and irrational bankers," said the member. "As a matter of fact, the conditions throughout the world today are the direct result of the stubbornness and unwillingness of man to adjust himself to scientific advance, thereby inviting wars, disaffections, unemployment and all manner of punishment nature may yet have in store for us."

Advocating government sponsorship of the research that would be necessary, Dr. Harris outlined from a scientist's viewpoint how fruit, instead of laying on the ground to rot, could be used for the production of fruit juices that were being popularized in other countries and to produce other commodities that would not perish.

COAL DEVELOPMENT

Regarding coal, in that field he saw the most interesting possibilities of development.

For instance, at the present time, bituminous coal is being mined by disastrously competitive conditions by uncorrelated producers. Its selling price at the mine was too high to permit of conservative mining methods, and its cost to the consumer was too high to furnish him with cheap power when he needed it.

Advocating government sponsorship of the research that would be necessary, Dr. Harris outlined from a scientist's viewpoint how fruit, instead of laying on the ground to rot, could be used for the production of fruit juices that were being popularized in other countries and to produce other commodities that would not perish.

GASOLINE FROM COAL

"We hear, too, a great deal about the production of gasoline from coal. There are those who deny it, but they are foolish," he continued. "It is more than possible to produce gasoline from coal. I believe, the new processes developed by General Petrar of France and Fischer of Germany, for the production of wood alcohol, ketones, etc., from coal offer the most promise. In addition, the new synthetic rubbers, which appear to be superior to the natural product, are rapidly finding their way into industry, also have their origin in coal, through acetylene gas. With ample water power that we have, I see no reason why British Columbia should not attempt to take the lead in developing these new industries."

QUEBEC DOG DERBY THRILLS

Names to conjure with in the dog sled derby world are now on the lists of drivers who will contend for the premier honors of the Quebec Dog Sled Derby to be staged in the Ancient Capital, February 23rd, 24th, and 25th. Emile St. Godard, mighty musher from Le Pas, Man., will again match dogs, stamina and wits against his great rival Leonard Seppala, the Alaskan whose feats on the trails are known the world over. St. Godard and Seppala, who are now training at Laconia, N. H., will both meet strenuous competition from such famous mushers as Jack Defalco, of Ottawa, Fred Wheeler, of St. Jovite, Que., and Raymond Ritsel, of Orford, Ont. It is expected that the total entries will run well over 30 teams.

The 120 mile classic is famous the world over, and followers of the great hearted dogs and gallant drivers are arranging to make their headquarters at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Chateau Frontenac, where, special music, dancing and light-hearted gaiety will feature each evening during Dog Sled Derby week. Winter sport enthusiasts from European, United States and Canadian centers are this year more than ever before making Quebec their winter playground. Ski-ing, tobogganing, curling and skating are among the popular activities under the direction of Jack Strathdee, winter sports director at the Chateau Frontenac.

NOTES OF LEGISLATURE

tries, instead of waiting until it is too late."

MARKETING LEGISLATION

Dr. Harris sounded an impressive note regarding the need for orderly marketing legislation. Something must be devised to guarantee the growers a fair return for their labors, at the same time permitting the consumers to purchase the products at a fair price. Once decided upon, such measures should be strictly enforced. "In my humble opinion," he said, "enlarging upon his theme of applying science to production, 'the future of the farming industry, and particularly the fruit industry, lies in the non-conversion of any surplus into a non-perishable commodity. It is interesting, and perhaps pathetic, to note that while fruit has been permitted to rot by the thousands of tons in British Columbia, we are nevertheless importing the value of many thousands of dollars annually."

He mentioned such items as canned apricots, peaches, pears, tomatoes, pineapple, and dried fruits, as well as the value of more than $2,000,000, which were imported in 1932.

BRANDY FROM APPLES

Brandy, another commodity imported to the value of more than $1,800,000, could be produced from apples, about sixteen gallons coming from one ton of the fruit, and it was not hard to calculate how much of the surplus apple crop this would use.

It had been demonstrated that Royal Anne cherries, always a drug on the market, could be successfully processed into glace cherries. An industry of this kind would be of immense value to the province.

"The development of by-product plants in agricultural communities will do more to prevent the gradual trend of young people to the cities than any other measure," he said. "We in the Okanagan feel that active support must be given to this sort of research."

FOREST PRODUCTS

In the forest products also there was ample room for similar development, he continued. When it was realized that 1,000 feet of lumber was normally worth about $20 as lumber, $40 as pulpwood and as high as $2,000 in the form of artificial silk, cellophane and other by-products, the question of exporting lumber in any form but a finished condition should be carefully considered. One of the most recent developments in this line was the action of chemically breaking down cellulose of wood into simple sugars.

Let us realize we are living in a chemical age, and that here we have been more blessed with those essentials for a chemical civilization—wood, coal and water-power," he added.

With these things he envisioned the possibilities of the government's new economic council.

"No parliamentary committee, no academic council, no ephemeral organization can cope with the stupendous problem," he said. "The mutually entangled intricacies of its component elements can be gradually reduced to order, and woven into the tapestry of an adequate general plan, only by a separate commission combining in its membership the best executive, economic and scientific brains in the country. The government is to be congratulated for having had the wisdom and courage to propose the establishment of such an economic council. I congratulate the government upon its excellent choice of chairman for such an important council."

UNEMPLOYED COULD HELP

As a means of assisting the economic council he suggested the young men who are "beating on their hearts in unemployment camps," could be given the opportunity to make a complete survey of the resources of the province, under expert supervision. Not only would the data they collected be helpful, but the experience for them would be invaluable.

For those not wishing to participate in such work, there was plenty of road work still requiring attention. He also said,

According to present arrangements, Byron Johnson, who topped the Victoria poll, will hold the spotlight when the House opens to-morrow. He is scheduled as the first speaker Friday to continue the debate on the speech from the Throne.

Capt. Charles S. Leary, Kaslo-Slocan, has been named Liberal whip, with Robert Wilkerson, Point Grey, second whip. Harold Finch, Vancouver-East, the youngest man in the House, has been named C.C.F. whip.

Dr. J. J. Gillis, Yale, has been named chairman of the Liberal caucus. Douglas McPherson, Grand Forks-Greenwood, will act during Dr. Gillis's absence through illness.

The main gallery was crowded and most of the accommodation of the others was well taken up for the second day of the session yesterday.

Thomas Uphill, as the lone member elected on a straight Labor whip, was distinctive as the only member without a collar and tie in the Legislature yesterday. The female member wore a khaki shirt.

He also recorded himself as the first inter-party member. When Norman Whitaker, Liberal, Saanich, said he knew no man better able to handle labor problems than the Minister of Labor, Mr. Uphill wanted to know "How about me?"

As frequently happens during the first few days of the Legislature, the House closed early yesterday. Mr. Whitaker and Dr. J. A. Harris spoke their addresses before 4 o'clock. The personnel of the committees were then announced and the members were free by 4 o'clock.

The committees will get down to business immediately. The private bills committee, under the chairmanship of A. M. Manson, was scheduled to meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Victoria's private bill will probably be among the first to come before the committee.

It seeks powers to continue the city's debenture refunding programme, to extend the mortgage on the watered property and to amend the statutory requirements on the first meeting of the year so that it will not be necessary for the council to meet on a holiday. Authority to regulate tax cuts is also asked.

One of the indications that most of the members of the House are as yet unfamiliar with their surroundings was apparent yesterday afternoon when no one called for a newspaper. Around about 4 o'clock it has always been the custom for page boys to deliver copies of papers to the members who, with impatient snaps of the fingers, would summon the uniformed lack to know where they were if they should happen to be late.

A sign that the announced intention of the C.C.F. members to adopt an attitude of "constructive criticism" is more than a mere phrase was given when they evinced more than usual interest in proposals advanced by Norman Whitaker and Dr. J. Allen Harris to help workers of the province, and were liberal with their applause.

The Minister of Railways, Premier Pattullo, and the Commissioner of Fisheries Hon. G. S. Pearson, presented the reports of these respective departments to the House yesterday.

The House is waiting to welcome back the respected member for Yale, Dr. J. J. Gillis, who has been prevented by illness from attending. His empty seat is the only gap in the assembly.

The Opposition side has five "party" sounded the cry of youth for more and wider educational facilities. Opportunity must be afforded those who wished to continue their studies, he said.

A bill legalizing the practice of chiropractic is reported in preparation, and is stated unofficially to have the government's approval. If it is adopted, it will end the fight between medical doctors and chiropractors over the last nine or ten years.

Seats on the floor of the House are reserved for distinguished visitors. Mr. Speaker, Perry, has pointed out, in a notice to members seeking their cooperation. These particular seats, he says, are for visitors from other countries or provinces and persons of high position and high esteem engaged in various activities in the province.

The Speaker will be glad to supply tickets for the ladies' gallery and the members' gallery, he says, in requesting Congress to give him the necessary facilities to maintain public order.

FORMER REBEL GENERAL SLAIN

Associated Press
Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 22.—Gen. Augusto C. Sandino, famous rebel, was killed with his brother, Socrates Sandino, and two friends by national guardsmen at midnight on the outskirts of Managua, a government communiqué indicated.

The government official states that the action of the Guardia Nacional in killing Sandino was contrary to instructions of President Sagasta to guarantee the lives of Sandino and his followers while they were in Managua.

The President has ordered an immediate investigation and is requesting Congress to give him the necessary facilities to maintain public order.

EXERCISE IS BENEFICIAL IF TAKEN PROPERLY

Before Going Into It Strenuously, You Should Understand Effect of Exertion on Your Muscles

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEE

Very likely you are one of the many persons who think that exercise is a waste of time, and that it is a waste of money to pay for a gymnasium or a swimming pool. This feeling about it has lasted for thousands of years and is more or less justified because the ways in which exercise is beneficial are many and varied.

It is known, for instance, that changes go on in muscles when they are active. These changes tend to be permanent, so that increase in the size of your muscle, its strength, and its endurance are recognized as regular effects of exercise.

This increase in size of the muscle is due to gradual enlargement of the individual fibers and not to the appearance of any extra fibers. It is thus a typical response of tissues to excess demand placed upon them. Other tissues of your body respond in the same way. A heart or a kidney that is overworked gradually gets larger.

One thing that exercise does certainly is to raise the basal metabolism, or the rate of the chemical changes, in the body.

Altogether, the general value of exercise is to increase the capacity of the body to do physical work. There is improvement in strength and endurance, and in the perfection of movement.

The increase in endurance is shown by the fact that the coming of fatigue is delayed. The blood is circulated more rapidly. Old blood cells are eliminated and new functioning blood cells take their place.

Most important of all results of exercise is perfection of movement. Endurance can be developed in many ways—by boxing, swimming, running, pulling weights, and other forms of exercises.

There are a few results of exercise which are not altogether beneficial. Chronic fatigue and overtraining are examples. Overstimulation of blood-

Another thing that training does for an athlete is to increase his vital capacity—that is, the amount of air that can be handled by his lungs.

The average athlete has a capacity of four to five quarts of air in contrast with three quarts for the non-athlete.

Bobby Rowe Pulls Home Team Off Ice In Final Protest

Aurel Joliat Has Good Chance To Take Valuable Player Award

Midget Winger of Canadiens Has Been Overshadowed By Morens

Maureen Orcutt Is the MacDonald Smith of Feminine Golf

AUREL JOLIAT, the little giant of Montreal Canadiens, will be under serious consideration next month as a candidate for the Hart Trophy, the National Hockey League's annual award to the player regarded as having been most valuable to his club. This, after basking in the reflected glory of a greater star, Morens, for ten years. In the last decade, the peerless pair of the Flying Frenchmen, Morens and Joliat, always Morens first—have led Canadiens to three Stanley Cup triumphs and three National League titles. Between them, they have scored close to 450 goals. They are the ranking front line duo of major hockey.

But during all this time, the glory went to Morens. "The blinding speed of the 'Stratford Streak' made him hockey's most famous figure. Three times he won the Hart Trophy, twice he topped all point-makers. It was Morens, the magnificent, who played beside little Aurel Joliat and Aurel Joliat helped but suffered by comparison, and so it went on for a decade. Just as Bun Cook has always played second fiddle to his first, as ten-year-old Billy Tilden to the neglect of Bill Johnson and Babe Ruth came ahead of Lou Gehrig, so did Joliat gain recognition as a "great" player, but not "the great," until now.

While Morens was on the sidelines this winter, with injuries the left winger kept the Canadiens' machine humming. Without Rowe to make scoring plays just the same. His scoring average lagged not at all, his spirit kept Canadiens on the move. That why Joliat may finally achieve real recognition.

Besides Joliat leading contenders for the 1934 award of the "Hart Trophy" are: Bun Cook, New York Rangers; Roy Worters, New York Americans; Charlie Conacher, Toronto Maple Leafs; Lionel Conacher, Chicago Black Hawks; Chuck Gardner, Chicago; King Clancy, Toronto; Harvey Jackson, Toronto; Frank Boucher, Rangers; and Howie Morens, Canadiens. The most valuable player award has been awarded ten times as follows: 1924, Frank Nighbor, Ottawa; 1925, Billy Burch, Hartford; 1926, Nels Stewart, Montreal Maroons; 1927, Herb Gardner, Canadiens; 1928, Howie Morens, Canadiens; 1929, Roy Worters, New York Americans; 1930, Nels Stewart, 1931, Morens; 1932, Morens; 1933, Eddie Shore, Boston.

Seven years ago a nineteen-year-old lass came within a few misplaced points of the United States women's championship. She lost, 5 and 4, in a furious final with Mrs. M. J. Maureen. The girl was Maureen Orcutt, the Mac Smith of feminine golf. From that day to this Maureen always has been in the running in the United States. She has won a flock of secondary tournaments, but never could quite catch the heights.

Miss Orcutt has played among the "big four" of women's golf for so long that her inconsistency in the most important tournaments has become one of the outstanding features of her game. She manufactures mysteries as quickly as a pulp novelist turns out plots. With average scores that run as low as 70 with the mark of 75, Collett and Hicks, she just can't win.

The veteran observer Mary K. Brown once gave her version of Maureen's technique: "For one thing Maureen consistently has been a very good match player. At crucial moments she blows up a Leo Diegel. Shoots phenomenal mental rounds, then goes to pieces."

A man named Jones used to have trouble like that. But when he died, he left a young son as a youth and took a few healthy swings at the sand, he would say. "There goes my blankety-blank mental rounds, then goes to pieces."

His record as a coach of champions is among the best. Seven of his swimmer proteges have been Olympic stars—Kenneth Buszagh, in 1912; Dick Powell, Ralph Brewer, Bob Stevenson, and Svbi Bauer, 1924; Wiley Coburn, 1928 and Al Schwartz, 1932.

Under his tutelage the Wildcats have won ten Big Ten titles and five national intercollegiate championships. His pupils hold seventeen records, one of them being a world mark—1:09.7 relay mark of 14 sets in 1927.

Drumheller Wins Hockey Play-off

Miners will meet the winners of the Edmonton Superiors-Lucan Indians series for the Alberta title, at a date which has not yet been set.

John McGraw Is Winning Battle

New Rochelle, N.Y., Feb. 22.—John J. McGraw, whose baseball career was marked by successful battles, appeared to be winning the battle for health to-day although he still was not out of danger. Seriously ill from uremic poison, the former manager of New York Giants has shown steady improvement since he was brought to New Rochelle Hospital from his home at Pelham Manor last Friday.

KEATS TALKS HOCKEY PLANS

Manager of Edmonton Team Suggests Two Western Leagues for Next Year

Vancouver, Feb. 22.—Two western professional hockey leagues, one on the Prairies and the other on the Coast, operating next year is a distinct possibility, it was believed here to-day following a visit to Vancouver of Gordon "Duke" Keats.

The manager of the Edmonton Eskimos to the Northwestern Professional Hockey League, is optimistic of the future of the professional game and declared that a four-team Prairie circuit and a four or five-team Coast circuit was quite possible.

As seen by the Duke, the Prairie loop would comprise Calgary, Edmonton, Saskatoon and possibly Great Falls, Montana.

Vancouver, Seattle, Portland, Tacoma and Spokane would be probable entries in the Coast circuit, Keats said.

As far as the Prairies were concerned, the project hinged on the installation of artificial ice plants, the Edmonton manager said. Great Falls already has such a rink.

TOO EXPENSIVE

"The jump between the Prairies and the Coast is too long and expensive," Keats said. "Plans on the Prairies will support good hockey, but with uncertain ice conditions you can't expect big games. And ice was one thing which is short of this year. Artificial ice would change that. It might even be possible to arrange inter-league games, each club making a single swing through the other circuit and have a playoff at the end of the season between the two league champions."

Genaro, who received a cut over his corner as the going rang for the ninth and informed Referee Eddie Burns he could not continue.

The fight was one-sided from the start. Pancho outboxed and outpunched his opponent to win every round but the seventh. Each weighed 114 pounds.

Portland Manager Refuses to Let Players Continue; Referee Attacked

FANS ATTEMPT TO BREAK SCREENS

Portland, Ore., Feb. 22.—Officially, the league-leading Calgary Tigers to-day were credited with two more points in the Northwestern Professional Hockey League standings after a 1 to 0 victory over Portland Buckaroos here yesterday evening. But some 2,500 hockey fans were still trying to figure out what the score was and if it was a hockey game.

It all happened in the third period of yesterday evening's Tigers-Buckaroos clash, one of the wildest sessions of hockey Portland fans have witnessed.

For the first two periods both teams were neck-and-neck, ending each of the periods with a goal apiece. Early in the third the trouble started. Referee Jack Bennett fell to the ice, apparently untouched, while talking to Skip Acaster, Portland captain. Nap Metcalfe, diminutive Portland winger, was skating up to see what the talker was about when the referee fell and Bennett, seeing Metcalfe advancing toward him, threw a handful of loose ice at the winger, then banged him with a match-penalty under the impression Metcalfe had attacked him.

PILE IN ON GOALIE

A few minutes later Gossie Herb Rheum smothered a Calgary shot when the tangle was cleared. Rheum found the puck was in his net, pushed there by Gordon Savage, Tiger defenseman and captain. How the puck got out from under him Rheum attempted to explain but the referee allowed the score.

On the face of the Tiger front line swept in and in a tangle around the goal, the puck was sent sailing forward, accidentally or otherwise, cracked Rheum across the back with his stick.

The heavy neimder tossed his stick in one direction and himself in the other—at Sutherland—and the two battled around the ice.

ATTACKS REFEREE

In the meantime Rusty Hemmer, hasty defender, caught Referee Bennett behind the net and proceeded to whop the arbiter.

Fans caught the spirit and attempted to break through retaining screens. Order was finally restored. Hemmerling went off with a match penalty and Rheum and Sutherland stayed.

Manager Bobby Rowe, however, refused to let his team continue; pulled them off the ice, and the referee declared the game defaulted to Tigers, 1 to 0.

First period—Portland (Evans) (Lyons), 7:00. Calgary (Couper) (Lyle), 8:25. Penalties: Singer, Gray and Sutherland.

Second period—Portland, Evans (Acaster), 2:40; Calgary, Sutherland (Savage), 2:55. Penalties: Savage, 2. Couper.

Third period—Calgary, Savage, 4:07. Penalties: Metcalfe (match), R. Hemmerling (match), Gray.

BUFFALO WINS OVER WINDSOR

Scores 2 to 1 in International Hockey League; Clean Play Features

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 22.—Frank Nighbor's close-checking Buffalo Blues defeated the Windsor Spitfires here yesterday evening to gain a 2 to 1 win at the expense of Windsor Bull Dogs in the International Hockey League.

Windsor now rates only an outside chance of making the 1933-34 playoffs. Armand and Barton scored for Buffalo, while Forslund netted for Windsor.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Buffalo, Armand (Schultz), 13:14. Penalties: McDonald.

Second period—2, Buffalo, Barton, 4:21. Penalties: McDonald.

Third period—3, Windsor, Forslund (Duguid), 20. No penalties.

Frank Jerwa was the sharpshooter of Cubs attack, notching three goals. Filmore collected two and Heximer, J. Jerwa and Buckles one each. Hudson won two King, Anderson and McGoldrick were Arrows' scorers.

Clash in Important N.H.L. Fixture; Canadiens and Maroons Decide City Title

Other teams may be a bit hesitant about qualifying to meet Toronto's high-scoring Maple Leafs for the National Hockey League title but Detroit Red Wings are headed for the unenviable task and don't seem to care.

Although Jack Adams' Wings still have nine games to play, they are being generally accepted as likely United States division winners and opponents for the Torontonians. True, Chicago Black Hawks trail them by four points and New York Rangers five but you can get odds they won't catch up.

Lefty Patrick and Tommy Gorman looked to deny either the Rangers or Hawks as they were to escape the five-game league title series and are saving themselves for the Stanley Cup playoffs. In fact, Patrick did deny the accusation last year when it was said the New Yorkers were exporting themselves in the wrong direction as Boston could have first place and be knocked off by Toronto.

LEAGUE TITLE A JINX

But even if managers are trying for the league title players cannot be blamed for observing the jinx that has faced itself to N.H.L. champions in the last two seasons. In 1932 Rangers won the title and lost the Stanley Cup to Toronto. Last year the situation was reversed with Toronto taking the league crown and Rangers the cup and world title.

Further light may be thrown on efforts of the United States division teams to come out on top when Detroit plays Patrick's team at Madison Square Garden and Hawks meet New York Americans at Chicago.

Canadiens and Maroons' clash at Montreal in a game that will decide the city championship and possession of the Kennedy Cup, a memorial to George Kennedy, one-time captain of Canadiens. So far each team has won two games and one has been tied. In goals, Canadiens have the edge with 13 to 11.

The Canadiens are still leading Canadians by three points and as Americans are sniping for a playoff berth from a position one point behind the Habitanis the latter must win to-night to be sure of staying in the first three.

In the fourth game to-night Ottawa plays at Boston.

Victoria Golfers Make Sure Of Two Midwinter Titles

DAVE RANDALL BEATS WHALEY

Victoria golfers entered in the women's handicap championship and the men's open event of the annual Empress Hotel mid-winter golf tournament at the Colwood Golf Club made certain of two titles coming to this city yesterday when they eliminated the last remaining out-of-town competitors in each event. With Ralph Whaley, Seattle, the lone foreign survivor in the men's handicap championship it looks like local players may make a clean sweep of the honors.

In the women's championship play yesterday Mrs. R. K. Beairson and Mrs. N. R. Debrisay, both of Winnipeg, fell before the sterling play of Miss D. Fletcher and Mrs. A. J. Gray, respectively. Miss Fletcher won 3 and 1, while Mrs. Gray came through after being carried to the twentieth hole. Mrs. Gray also provided the feature of the day by scoring a hole-in-one on her 148-yard seventh. In the other two matches Miss Phyllis Hodgson defeated Mrs. H. A. Rhodes 1 up and Mrs. R. B. Wilson eliminated Mrs. A. S. G. Murgrave, 2 and 1.

MEN'S OPEN

The men's open championship saw the last visiting player eliminated when Dave Randall turned back the determined threat of Ralph Whaley, Seattle, 3 and 2. In the other quarter-final matches Bob Morrison defeated Howard Reid, 2 and 1. Art Christopher defeated Rowan MacKenzie, last year's winner, 3 up, and Harold Presty eliminated J. H. Wilson, 3 and 7.

RANDALL PLAYS WELL

Randall played the golf he is returned winner over Whaley. After having the first hole, Whaley dropped a fine putt on the second for a birdie to take the lead. Randall took the dog-tricky third, Whaley picking up after getting into trouble. A birdie two gave Randall the short fourth, but again Whaley leveled the match by winning the long fifth. Randall went ahead again by winning the sixth and seventh. The eighth and ninth were halved, and Whaley took the dog-tricky tenth, while the eleventh was halved and the twelfth went to Randall with a three and four. A par gave the Seattle player the thirteenth, but Randall held his lead by taking the fourteenth. Whaley stayed in the fight by capturing the fifteenth, and then Randall ended the match by paring the sixteenth for a win.

DAVE RANDALL BEATS WHALEY

Victoria golfers entered in the women's handicap championship and the men's open event of the annual Empress Hotel mid-winter golf tournament at the Colwood Golf Club made certain of two titles coming to this city yesterday when they eliminated the last remaining out-of-town competitors in each event. With Ralph Whaley, Seattle, the lone foreign survivor in the men's handicap championship it looks like local players may make a clean sweep of the honors.

In the women's championship play yesterday Mrs. R. K. Beairson and Mrs. N. R. Debrisay, both of Winnipeg, fell before the sterling play of Miss D. Fletcher and Mrs. A. J. Gray, respectively. Miss Fletcher won 3 and 1, while Mrs. Gray came through after being carried to the twentieth hole. Mrs. Gray also provided the feature of the day by scoring a hole-in-one on her 148-yard seventh. In the other two matches Miss Phyllis Hodgson defeated Mrs. H. A. Rhodes 1 up and Mrs. R. B. Wilson eliminated Mrs. A. S. G. Murgrave, 2 and 1.

CURLERS SEEK CANADA TITLE

Western and Eastern Stars Prepare for Championship Play at Toronto Soon

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The east had an almost complete lineup of curling talent in the field today for another attempt to break the west's hold on the McDonald Brier Trophy, emblem of single-rink supremacy in Canada. The big round-robin bonspiel between provincial champions starts here March 5.

When A. H. M. Hay, Quebec Victorians, shipped his quartette to victory Wednesday night over a clubmate, Major W. H. Petry, it raised to four the east's representation. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario had previously decided challengers for the trophy held by Alberta.

Until Cliff Manahan's rink from Edmonton came along last year and swept through the opposition, the MacDonald Brier had always been strictly a Manitoba event. Such stars as Gordon Hudson, Bob Gourley and Jim Connelton, from Winnipeg, had kept the Dominion title there.

But Manahan's troupe broke the string, and eastern curlers have renewed hope that this year may be their turn. So far the only western rink to qualify for the Canadian bonspiel is Leo Johnson's Winnipeg Strathconas. Alberta and Saskatchewan winners are expected to be decided within a couple of days.

Kathleen Garnham Wins First Match

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.—Favorites all advanced in the first round of the South Atlantic golf championship, yesterday, but for the co-medalist and present Western champion, Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, Iowa, it was a tight squeeze.

Jane Douglas, Beverly Hills, Cal., sixteenth on the qualifying list, forced Miss Robinson to rally sharply on the home nine and run the match to the twentieth hole before succumbing.

Although still not in top form, Kathleen Garnham, London, England, smothered Mrs. F. W. Thomas, Englewood, N.J., 8 and 6.

Breaking par on the first nine with a 36, Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, the United States champion, coasted home to a 4 and 3 decision over Mrs. Bernice Lippitt, Albany, Ga.

Bailey and Shore Shake Hands

"Hello, Ace" . . . "Hello, Eddie," and they shook hands while 14,000 rabid hockey fans cheered. It was the occasion of the Ace Bailey benefit night at Maple Leaf Gardens, when an all-star team of hockey players played the Maple Leafs, with the proceeds going to Ace Bailey, right, the Toronto hockey star, who was badly injured while playing against Boston in a league game a few months ago, and Eddie Shore (left), the Boston defence veteran, was the cause of the accident. However, bygone are bygone and they are still friends.

Soccer Teams Still Tied For Top Place In Mid-week League

Spencers and Garrison Register Wins Over Bays and Maccabees

Navy Eleven in Shutout Victory

Garrison and Spencer soccer eleven remained deadlocked in the premier berth in the Wednesday Football League standings today, following victories yesterday afternoon over the Maccabees and the Hudson's Bay, respectively. Playing on their home ground at Work Point Barracks, the Tommies handed the clubmen a 3 to 1 defeat, while Spencers humbled the Hudson's Bay 2 to 0 at Heywood Avenue. Navy went into a tie with the Maccabees for third place in the standing by trouncing the James Bay Liberals 4 to 0 at Beacon Hill. Played in brilliant sunshine and on dry grounds, the games attracted good crowds.

TILDEN IN GREAT WIN

New York, Feb. 22.—Staging a magnificent rally after he appeared to be on the road to defeat, Bill Tilden shook off his campaign weariness yesterday evening to conquer his old Davis Cup rival, Henri Cochet, and give the United States a clean sweep of all five matches in the first Franco-American professional tennis series. The scores of their brilliantly-fought five-set duel were 7-9, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Ellsworth Vines, young California pro, tallied the other point for the United States by disposing of Martin Pila, former world professional champion, 12-11, 6-3, 6-3.

The American pair had clinched the series with three straight victories Monday night but the final pair of singles battles attracted an even bigger crowd than the first night. The paid attendance was 12,663, and the gate receipts $20,066, making a total of 24,000 cash customers and $38,000 in receipts for the two-night programme.

With the rest period near, Spencers finally broke the tie when McKinnon scored after Browne had taken a perfect corner kick. Watching the ball leaving Browne's foot, McKinnon closed in between Wyatt and O'Connell, Bay backs, sneaked the leather from them and banged it home with a first-time shot. Wyatt prevented this, but the only goal of the initial half.

Spencers had ninety-five per cent of the attack, but it was the effective work of Stevens and Oakman, Bay halfbacks, Wyatt and O'Connell, fullbacks, and the phenomenal net-minding of Baxter, prevented this fighting club from piling up any great score. In fact, for fully thirty-five minutes they presented any second-half scoring. However, McKinnon finally found the net with a well-placed shot, late in this half.

Spencer's goal, was only called upon two or three times in the second half to save.

Alcock refereed.

The teams were: Spencers—McMillan, Munroe, Cahn, D. Bradley, Bissell, L. Bradley, Brown, Clarke, Wilson, Linton and McKinnon; Hudson's Bay—Baxter, O'Connell, Wyatt, Menzies, Stevens, Oakman, Ward, Scott, Fish, Doherty and Collier.

GRASSHOPPER WINS
Gaining a three-goal lead in the first half when they garnered the only markers registered, and proving capable of withstanding a strong Maccabees' onslaught, the Grasshoppers, Captain chucked up a 3 to 1 victory over the clubmen at Work Point Barracks.

Garrison broke into the score column fifteen minutes after the game got under way when Edwards scored on a penalty. A combined forward attack in which the Army front line worked smoothly, gave the Tommies their second marker ten minutes before the rest interval, when Miller completed the play by banging the leather past William Maccabees' goalie. Just before the half-time whistle, Miller made it 3 to 0, when he accepted Evans' pass and scored with a fine drive.

Taking command of the situation almost immediately after the resumption of play, Maccabees missed many golden opportunities of scoring goals. Time and time again they swooped down on the Garrison goal, but erratic shooting and poor passing saw many excellent chances wasted.

Maccabees netted the only score in the half when Tommy Graves accepted Newell's pass from the right wing and sent the leather sailing into the net. D. Swan refereed.

The teams follow: Maccabees—Wilmhurst, T. Bridges, Clining, Pledhavy, Woodley, W. Graves, Sharp, Roberts, T. Graves, Speller and Newell.

Garrison—Glendinning, Buxton, Lindley, Warwick, Richard, Wilkinson, Evans, Edwards, Miller, Cook and McAllister.

NAVY DEFEATS LIBERALS
Having a good evening in the play, particularly in the first half, Navy trounced the James Bay Liberals 4 to 0, at Beacon Hill Park.

Hutton, Navy inside left, garnered the first tally ten minutes from the start when he accepted Walker's pass and banged the leather into the net. Walker added the sailor's second goal when he scored from close range, after receiving the ball from Hall, halfback. Shortly after Walker concluded the first half, scoring with a terrific drive which hit under the crossbar and rebounded into the net.

The Liberals looked better in the second half, staging many dangerous attacks on the Navy citadel, but Caldwell, sailor net minder, handled everything in fine style. Bennaloch put the finishing touches on the scoring late in this half when he headed the ball into the Liberals' net. James Bay fought hard to prevent a whitewash following this marker, but the Navy defence withstood all attacks.

Spence refereed.

The team follow: Navy—Caldwell, Dorey, Myles, Bamford, Greenon, Gleave, Hall, Marr, Bennaloch, Hutton and Walker.

James Bay Liberals—Sedler, Paul, Crawford, Reid, Thue, A. McBride, Ober, Reid, Eastwood, N. McBride and Miller.

FRENCH FIGHTER WINS
Paris, Feb. 22 (Associated Press).—The French flyweight, Maurice Eugénien, outpointed Joe Mendillo, Filipino boxer, in a close ten round bout here yesterday evening.

FOURTH DEGREE

A Mystery Novel

By K. S. DAIGER

(Copyright by Macrae-Smith Company)

"No, Kay, it was no crook who smoked those cigarettes in the basement that night and left those smears of lipstick."

At this moment MacNalley appeared. "Someone wants you on the phone, sir," he said.

"That's probably Hughes & Company, the jewelers. They promised to call me as soon as they had appraised the pendant. I'll see you again."

"Yes, I answered. 'In going to shoot back to town and talk things over with Reynolds. They have another man working in my place but they'll be glad to get the story first hand. I'll come back as soon as I've finished.'"

"Good-bye," said Anderson nodding. "I'll either be in my office or out here. Look me up."

And he turned on his heel and started back for the house while I started my automobile and headed back for the city.

Reynolds greeted me with ill-concealed eagerness. "What's the news, Kay?" he inquired, seeking to make his voice sound casual and falling entirely.

There is an idea that newspaper men, particularly editors, are most blasé and indifferent to the trend of the news. That's wrong. I don't know any group of men more wide awake or with a keener interest in what goes on in their communities.

"Plenty of news," I told him. "I've been up at the house all the morning, and they're being quizzed. Paige, I think, sounds pretty fishy, though it hasn't been disproven yet. Carroll's gone over to Washington to investigate it. Mrs. Deane, the housekeeper, tells a queer yarn about a mysterious letter and a telephone call. I dictated all that to Harris—I suppose I caught the noon edition."

Reynolds nodded. "The real news is that Paige has engaged Kirk Judson to investigate his wife's murder. That's what Judson doesn't want to do. Anderson seems to think that Paige is trying to cover his own tracks."

"That sounds pretty serious," commented Reynolds. "Well, have to be careful what we say. I wish you could write the story. Feature Judson but don't imply Paige's guilt. Suppose we get out an extra."

I sat down at my typewriter and a copy boy took up his stand beside me. Every dozen or so lines, I whipped the sheet out of my machine, handed it to the waiting boy without even glancing over it. This youngster dashed up to pressroom with it while another lad took his place.

In this fashion I wrote three columns relative to the Paige murder—the story of Mr. Paige and his engagement of the services of Kirk Judson and the strange facts related by the housekeeper. I avoided all mention of the cigarettes and matches we had found in the basement.

The last line was finally written and the copy boy left my side. I reported the engagement of Judson as soon as possible, and put on my hat.

It was now almost dusk and the first day of the Paige murder case was rapidly drawing to a close.

Outside the building dozens of trucks were parked and my extra was already being loaded into them. That's what we extra-men are—few minutes of feverish activity and presto! the man on the street has the latest news.

A newsie dashed up to me. "Extra! Extra, mister! bawled 'All the latest news about the Paige murder!'"

I bought a copy, anxious to see what the copy desk had done in the way of headlines.

And there, to my consternation, across the front of the green sheet was an eight-stremer headlined: "PAIGE MURDER!"

I smiled, somewhat wryly. My story hadn't said anything about an arrest—which was a small matter, but I could see Anderson's face when he picked up that paper and realized that I had written it—Oh, well!

"Hi, there, Kay," I heard a familiar voice shout, and there was Dicky Carroll beaming at me as if I were his long lost brother, his young face alight with animation.

"Back already?" I asked in surprise. "I didn't expect to hear from you until to-morrow."

"I'm back," said Carroll briefly. "I got the dope all right. And, looking at him closely in the twilight, I noticed a curious, triumphant look on his face. Either he had accomplished something, discovered something, or else he had another wild idea about the Paige case."

"Come on, get it off your chest," I said, ready for almost anything.

"Listen, my boy. His voice was mysterious and confidential. 'What I've got to tell you is reported first to the inspector. I've phoned him and he's out of the Paige house. I thought I'd pick you up on my way out.'"

"Good idea," I answered. "But do you know who did it?"

"There's one old man," said Carroll quietly. "Just you be patient and come along with me. I've got news for you, but it's not official yet. Subdue your professional zeal for the time being with a bit of my professional calmness. Come on."

At the wagon, the Baltimore Street Carroll stopped to look in almost every window.

"Look at that!" he exclaimed. "MacPherson's been selling two-dollar ties for one berry. What do you say we take a look at them?"

"The hell with ties! If you aren't in a hurry let's duck into this salaried and get some sandwiches and coffee. I've had nothing since breakfast."

An hour later we were with Anderson again in the library of the Paige house. The inspector looked worn and a frazzled. But he smiled at us.

"Back?" he said to Carroll.

"Yes. I spent the entire day in Washington on Paige's business and it's not business, if you ask me. I suggest, inspector, that you call him and ask him to come out. There's some things we'll want him to clear up, I think."

"There are some things I want to ask him myself," said Anderson, glancing at a paper in his hand. "I've phoned him to be here at eight-thirty. But I'm afraid that I can't listen to your report just now. Mrs. Phelps is here to see me and I've already kept her waiting almost an hour as it is. Suppose we talk to her first—I don't imagine it will take long. MacNalley, calling to the office

Uncle Wiggily's Funny Sneeze

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

The day after Raggle, the tramp rabbit, had shaken the Bob Cat as Nurse Jane would shake a rug and when Uncle Wiggily had sneezed snow in the Rag-Chap's face, something else happened. I'm going to tell you all about it.

Uncle Wiggily was sitting in his hollow stump bungalow that morning after breakfast. Sitting near him was Raggle, the tramp rabbit, though he no longer looked like a tramp, for he was wearing one of Uncle Wiggily's good suits of clothes. The rabbit children were getting ready to hop along and recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School.

"And I think I had a little better be hopping along," said Raggle.

"Why so?" asked Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose in surprise. "You don't have to go to school, do you?"

"Oh, no," answered Raggle. "But I have been stung in my bungalow rather a long time and you must be getting tired of keeping an old tramp rabbit around."

"No, indeed!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Certainly not!" said Mrs. Longears. "We like to have you for company."

And Nurse Jane said: "I don't know of anybody for whom I like better to bake pancakes."

"Well, this is very kind of you," said Raggle with a smile. "But you see I am a tramp rabbit and I never stay very long in one place. I have enjoyed my visit here, you have been very kind to me, but I shall have to go."

"Oh, but not before we have one more adventure together," said Uncle Wiggily. "You know how I love to see the face of the Fox for me, you shook the Bob Cat like a rug, but still I think the Wootie Wolf needs to be taught a lesson. Suppose we go look him up on an adventure with the big bad Wolf."

"Of course!" I was forgetting the Wolf," laughed Raggle. "All right, I'll go on one more adventure with you."

At the two gentlemen rabbits were getting ready to hop out, Baby Bunty, the orphan rabbit, who was hurrying to school, asked:

"Uncle Wiggily, may I have an adventure when I come home?"

"Oh, yes, I suppose so," said Mr. Wiggily. "You have to go into the woods, for the Bad Chap may get you. Stay out in the fields."

"All right, I will," promised Baby Bunty. "But please wait and see what happened."

Uncle Wiggily and Raggle, the tramp rabbit, hopped over the fields and through the woods, hoping they might meet the Wolf. It was the first time Uncle Wiggily had ever really wanted to meet the Wolf. But with Raggle, the brave, bold bunny, with him Mr. Longears was not afraid.

But, for some reason, they didn't meet the Wolf, nor the Bob Cat, nor the Fox, either. Afternoon came and still no adventure for the gentlemen rabbits. Baby Bunty came home from school, asked:

"Come on!" he called to Jingle and Jangle, the twin bunny girls. "Uncle Wiggily said I have to go on an adventure and I'll share it with you."

"Oh, how lovely!" said Jingle. "What kind of an adventure is it going to be?" asked Jangle.

"I don't know," Bunty answered. "But let's hop over the fields."

So they hopped over the fields looking for an adventure, but none could they find. Then Bunty either forgot what Uncle Wiggily had told her or she didn't care or something, because, all of a sudden, she said to Jingle and Jangle:

"Let's go to the woods. I'm sure we'll find an adventure there."

And they did. For, as they hopped, though as yet unseen by Uncle Wiggily and Raggle, was lurking the Wootie Wolf. He was very hungry and when he saw three tender, juicy little rabbit girls hopping toward the bush where he was hiding, the Wolf stuck out his long tongue and adventure! Where are you?" called Baby Bunty.

"Here I am!" howled the Wolf and he jumped out from behind the bush. But before he could jump on or nibble even the tips of Bunty's ears, along came rushing Raggle, who, with Uncle Wiggily, reached the scene just in time. "Hi! So you're an adventure, are you?" shouted Raggle at the Wolf. Then Raggle pushed the Bad Chap down in the snow and rolled him into it. "But it was a great adventure, wasn't it, Uncle Wiggily?" she said.

So now, if the nice, new shiny automobile isn't too proud to speak to the poor old motor cycle with one tire, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily going tramping.
